-Hollingsworth - Crew Family-

Additional information on the Hollingsworth family has been received in response to the article on the family which appeared in the Vol. 2 #2 issue of HeirLines, Summer 1983. Following is a letter from Dorothy Edmonson (Mrs J.D.) to the Warren County Genealogical Society.

Dear members,

The first two issues of Heir Lines 1983 reached me today. I enjoyed very much the article on the Hollingsworth Family in Miami MM.

I would like to call your attention to a mistake on page 53 under: 1(George) Joseph b. 1735 etc. m. 2nd 4 June 1768 Margaret(Wright) Hammer. child 4 Isaac m. Hannah (Crem).

I have seen this mistake before and would like to make a correction as to her identity. She was HANNAH CREW b 21 Oct 1776, VA or Surry County, NC the daughter of David Crews and Sarah Gooch-both born Hanover Co, VA married 1764 in Virginia. They came to NC by August 1777-where David was in the 1790 U.S. census from Stokes County. He is a descendant(g.son) of John Crew and wife Sarah of Charles City and New Kent County, VA--Henrico MM.

In Deep River MM, Guilford Co NC 7 Sept 1807-Isaac Hollingsworth and family gct Miami MM, Ohio: Hannah and 3 dt gct Miami MM, Ohio

Children were: John, Susanna, Gulielma and Phebe, b. in NC. p. 5 Hinshaw Vol 5--they were accepted from Deep River MM 10 March 1808. On 26 Sept 1810 they were granted a certif. to Whitewater MM, IN where on 24 Nov 1810 Isaac and son John, Hannah and dt. Susannah, Gulielma & Phebe rocf Miami MM, OH. They added 2 children in IN--Cyrus and Sarah Gooch Hollingsworth.

Hannah died here 11-29-1814 and buried Silver Creek burying ground.

The children were sent back to NC to live with relatives. Isaac finally went back to NC--remarried and presumably died there. I have not yet found his birth or death record. I have been in contact with 2 of his descendants.

Isaac H. b ca 1771 d. in NC 184_. (1841?) m. 1. Hannah Crews. b 21 Oct 1776 d. 29 Nov 1814.

Children: 1. Susanna Hollingsworth b. 8-10-1801 NC

2. John H. b. 30 July 1803 NC

3. Gulielma H. b. 26 Nov 1804 NC

4. Phebe H. b. 2 June 1806 NC

5. Cyrus H. b. 10 March 1811 IN

6. Sarah Gooch H. b. 21 Oct 1812 IN

1. Susannah Hollingsworth m 23 Nov 1824 Joseph Hoskina(Hoskins) Guilford Co. NC Joseph Dennis, bondsman. D. in NC

2. John Hollingsworth m 7 May 1825 Armintha Hobbs, Guilford Co. NC. To IN.

3. Gulielma Hollingsworth m. 21 Aug 1828 Horace Cannon-Guilford Co. NC

John H. Davis-bond-to IN. Horace d. in IN. Gulielma d. in ILL--they were parents of Congressman Joe Cannon of ILL.

4. Phebe Hollingsworth m 28 Oct 1824 in Dover MM, Guilford Co. NC Nathan Stanley, son of Samuel Stanley and Sarah Williams-they eventually went to IN.

5. Cyrus Hollingsworth-eventually to IN with his sister Sarah G. Hollingsworth. In WestfieldMM, IN on 15 Feb 1843 he married Rachel Willetts, dt of Evan Stanbrough, decd and Elizabeth on 1 Feb 1851 they were gct Richland MM, IN. Rachel was the widow of Joseph L. Willetts-who she m. 21 Sept 1838. Joseph died 12 Aug 1839. They had a dt. Levina Willetts b 10 April 1839.

6. Sarah Gooch Hollingsworth came to IN with her brother Cyrus from New Garden MM NC 1841--they lived with their sister Mrs. Horace Cannon.

Page 215-pt 5 Indiana Quakers, Heiss: Sarah G. Hollingsworth b 21 Oct 1812

IN dt. Isaac & Hannah (CREW) decd d. 5 April 1849, BloomfieldMM, IN. unmarried.

Hannah CREW Hollingsworth was the sister of Hiram Crews who came to Ohio ca 1815 from NC with wife Hannah UNTHANK. Their daughters m there in Ohio--Warren or Clinton Co. Ohio. I lost track of Hannah 1830 when she went to Miami MM again.

I became interested in the Hollingsworth line by working on the Crews line. I am a Crews descendant.

Perhaps this information will be helpful for additional Hollingsworth families.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Edmonson (Mrs. J.D.)

Tavern Licenses

The following information on tavern licenses granted in 1852 was found in and copied from a book located in the Warren County Clerk of Courts office and titled "Record of Testimony". The book contained only two depositions and the license list. The depositions were: One in 1810 by Henry Lazier concerning an account between Ebeneser Nowell and Samuel McCray for produce "sent down the River with McCray" and one in 1826 by Ann Schenck and Mary Spinning concerning the repayment of a loan by John N. Cumming of NJ to William C. Schenck at the time, about 1798, that Schenck "left NJ for the Western Country with his family". A copy of either deposition can be made for interested researchers for cost (30¢ and 40¢ respectively) plus a SASE sent to the WCGS Resource Center.

Contributions of material are welcome.

NEXT ISSUE: The WCGS has recently organized and inventoried the old record books located in the Clerk of Courts Office. These books had been in a state of disarray, making it extremely time-consuming to locate the records indexed in the General Index to Court Records, 10 vol. 1803-1975 and the Supreme Court General Index, 1 vol. 1803-1875. It is planned that the next issue of Heir Lines will include the inventory of record books that are available plus an article on what is contained in the records and something about the history of the various early courts that generated these records. The records are interesting, and sometimes invaluable, to the family researcher since litigation was often a part of frontier life. This is part of the WCGS's continuous effort to provide local help for the genealogist and historian.

Boxwell Exam

June is the time for graduations, so lets turn our thoughts back to some that took place many years ago. For a period of about 20 years around the turn of the century, the "Boxwell Exam" was a familiar term to Ohio families with school-age children. Warren County can claim the sponsor of the so-called Boxwell Law as a resident as well as its representative to the state legislature.

Following is a biographical sketch on Mr. Boxwell written by local historian and columnist Marion Snyder. The text of House Bill #14 is followed by some of Marion's comments on the application of the Bill. Then, there are several pages of commencement programs from the period and a list of the 173 participants in the "Last Boxwell Commencement".

ALEXANDER BOXWELL
by Marion Snyder

The author of the Boxwell(school examination) Law, Alexander Boxwell, was born in Frederick County, Virginia in 1852 and some five years later his parents, James and Sarah(?) Boxwell removed to a farm near Red Lion in Clearcreek Township, Warren County, Ohio. He received his schooling in the little school house at Red Lion where he proved to be an apt pupil. We are told that he started teaching school as soon as he completed his education, doing so for some 16 years.

He is reported to have taught at the Green Tree School a short distance southwest of Red Lion. Beers' 1882 history lists him as a Justice of the Peace for his township in 1879, 1880, and 1881, the last date covered by the listing. His activities in Red Lion included membership in the newly-formed Red Lion Library formed by Mrs. Mary Ballard in 1879; being the first president of the Irving Literary Society organized at his home on October 5, 1883. He had previously been superintendent of the Methodist Church's Sunday School where he also was a teacher.

Mr. Boxwell married Margaret V. Devericks at Red Lion on April 16, 1874 while he was teaching school there. At an unknown date he started "reading law" in his spare time and eventually was admitted to the bar. His two sons, Lester and Lynn, were born before the family moved to Franklin, it is believed about 1885. He was soon active there, continuing his sunday school and church activities at the Methodist Church in his new community. Besides practicing law he was a director and attorney for the newly-formed Miami Building and Loan Association. He continued his connection with this institution the remainder of his life.

Strange as it seems, the date of our subject's election to the state legislature has not been confirmed but it is recorded here that he served five two-year terms, being Speaker of the House in 1894-95. The writer believes he was in the legislature nearly all of the 1890's. He was on the House's Finance Committee two terms and was of some influence to have been able to pass House Bill 14 on March 22, 1892.

Mr. Boxwell served later as Probate Judge of Warren County and was called "Judge Boxwell" thereafter. He concluded a lengthy term on February 8, 1913. In addition to his many other activities, Judge Boxwell was very active in the Warren County Sunday School Association, now defunct but very active in the early years of this century. Judge Boxwell also attended many township sunday school "conventions", as they were called, and minute books from any of them would be a genealogical boon.

The Judge passed away at Miami Valley Hospital in Dayton on January 26, 1923. Many walks of life were represented at his funeral at the Franklin Methodist Church. Mrs. Boxwell lived until October 11, 1933. At the time of his death, the Judge had three brothers and two sisters still living. One of his sons was deceased, the other was residing in Nashville, Tennessee.

House Bill No. 14
AN ACT

To provide for graduation from the common schools of subdistricts and special districts

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, That each board of county school examiners shall have power to, and shall make all necessary provisions and arrangements for, and shall hold examinations of pupils of the subdistricts and special districts in the subjects of orthography, reading, writing, arithmetic, geography, physical geography, English grammar, United States history and physiology. Such examinations shall be held in the county seats on the first Saturday of April and May of each year, and shall be of such a character as shall enable the successful applicants to enter any high school in the county.

Section 2. To each successful applicant who shall deliver an oration or declamation, or read an essay in some public place provided by the clerk of the township board of education, a diploma shall be formally presented on the first Saturday of June next after the examination of such successful applicant, in the county seat, at the conclusion of the annual address, which address shall be proved by the board of county school examiners. Provided that the township commencement shall be under the direction of a teacher of the township who shall have been appointed to that duty by the clerk of the township board of education.

Section 3. The tuition of such graduates as may attend any village or city high school of the county may be paid by the board of education of the special or township districts in which such pupils may reside.

Section 4. The compensation of the county examiners for their official services and the necessary contingent expenses incident to examinations and commencements shall be paid out of the county treasury in manner provided in section 4075 of the Revised Statutes; provided, however, that the expenses of the township commencements shall be paid by the township board of education.

Section 5. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

LEWIS C. LAYLIN

Speaker of the House of Representatives.

President of the Senate.

Passed March 22, 1892.

The graduation or commencement exercises were held on a township basis, the examination was a county event. The Boxwell Law was replaced in 1914 by the Patterson Law that covered several aspects of school district setups and elementary pupils qualifying for high school. The law that Mr. Boxwell sponsored not only made it possible for rural pupils to attend high school at public expense (many had to pay their own way before) but it ended a dispute of some 50 years over the exact differences between elementary and high school.

The Warren County Boxwell examinations were often held in the I.O.O.F. (Odd Fellows) Hall in Lebanon. The late Mrs. Hazel (Lewis) Brooks, who resided next door, recalls in a pamphlet issued some years ago of the preparations made each year for the examinations. There are some Warren County residents who recall taking the Boxwell examination. Mrs. Fletah (Crane) Gray, at Dodds, still has her certificate which she received at the 1900 graduation of the Clearcreek Township "successful condidates".

Last Boxwell Commencement

Last Boxwell Commencement - to be held at the Lebanon University on 27th of June at 2:30 P.M. 1914.

The last Boxwell Commencement to be held under the old law will take place at 2:30 P.M. in the Lebanon University Chapel on June 27th. One hundred and seventy three (173) pupils will receive their diplomas at this commencement. This is the largest number ever given by any county board of school examiners in one year. The large number is due to the fact that more pupils have been taking the examination in the last few years. Nearly one hundred pupils from the villages were at the examination this year. In former years only rural pupils were permitted to take the Boxwell.

The diplomas received by the pupils entitle them to free tuition in any high school that they wish to enter in the state.

--- Nathaniel McLean ---

Beers' History of Warren County, OH (p. 370) gives us a brief glimpse of the family of Fergus McClean and his wife Sophia, who had all come from Morris Co., NJ to Morganstown, VA in 1789,--then moved near to Nicholasville, KY and finally to Clearcreek Twp., Warren Co., OH in 1799. Fergus was referred to as "a poor man with a large family". He belonged to the Clearcreek Baptist Church and platted the nearby community of Ridgeville.

Among his sons was Nathaniel McLean, who worked with his brother, John, in establishing the newspaper "The Western Star" in Lebanon, about 1807. Three years later, John left the business to pursue his profession as an attorney and Nathaniel moved over to the editor's chair. His own personal life soon changed too, as Nathaniel was married on 20 December 1809 to Hester Nutt (with her father's consent).¹ These McLean families in Lebanon were members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

An interest in politics by both John and Nathaniel spurred them on, now, to greater heights. John became an Ohio Representative to the U.S. Congress in 1812,² and, two years after that Nathaniel left his newspaper responsibilities in the hands of his brother, William McLean,³ in order to devote more time perhaps to civic activities. Nathaniel was elected to the State Assembly, serving there in 1817 and 1818; then he became a State Senator, serving at Columbus 1819-1822. The county history mentions Nathaniel McLean as Clearcreek Township Treasurer in 1836 and as a director of School District #4 in September 1845. Sometime later, he moved to St. Paul, Minnesota where he died after March 1871.

A copy of his will⁴ has been obtained and it gives the following information for Nathaniel McLean of Ramsey County, MN--"advanced in years and feeble of body, but of a sound disposition, mind, memory and understanding..."

1. beloved wife, Hester McLean.
2. daughter, Arabella H. McLean
3. son, (Moses) Henry McLean. His sons: Milton McLean, John McLean.
4. daughter, Jane H. Henle.(She occupied a house in St Paul owned by Nathaniel.)
5. deceased son, Milton N. McLean. (heirs)
6. deceased daughter, Sophia E. Dow. Her children: Milton M. Dow, Eliza Alexander and Arabella Alexander.
7. daughter, Mary Lennon. (1 child)
8. He owned several properties including the homestead farm of 60 acres where his wife, Hester, and dau., Arabella, were residing.
9. He appointed as executors to his will: Parker Paine and John A. Pollock.
10. The will was written 3 Sept. 1867 at St. Paul and a codicil was attached on 15 March 1871.(Person copying this will neglected to give probate date.)

(Any McLean descendant who is interested in Nathaniel may have a copy of the will by writing to Adele Blanton, 10495 Deerfield Rd., Cincinnati, OH 45242.

See Notes on reverse side.

Notes regarding Nathaniel McLean.

1. Reference: p.35, Warren Co. Marriage Records No. 1, O.S. 1803-1852. The "father's consent" indicates that Hester was not yet eighteen years of age.
2. John McLean was admitted to the Bar in autumn 1807. He later served four years as Representative to Congress and then became a Judge in the State Supreme Court. In 1830, he was appointed by President Andrew Jackson to the Supreme Court of the United States, a position which he held for thirty years.
3. William McLean, like his brother John, became an attorney. He moved to Piqua, Miami County, and from there was elected to Congress, serving from 1823 to 1829--after which he returned to Lebanon to continue practising law.
4. This is a typewritten copy of the original handwritten will, and there are a few question marks where the person copying it had difficulty in interpreting the old script. Therefore, the spelling of some names may be incorrect.

Streeter Chart

A note from Mary Remler of Cincinnati, Ohio, our former district Vice-President to the Ohio Genealogical Society includes the following information.

Found in an antique shop called "Four Chimneys" located in Warren Co. on Montgomery Road a short distance from Morrow: a framed, drawn lineage chart. The information was copied as follows:

Thomas S. Streeter b. 2 Jan 1825 married 15 June 1852 by Elder Daniel Morrison to Sarah A. Miller b. 16 Aug. 1829. This was in center at top of sheet.

Under caption of Births it listed the following:

Emeline A. Streeter 6 Oct 1854

Mary E. Streeter 29 Mar. 1862

Charles M. Streeter 17 July 1868

Under Marriages it listed:

Emeline married 9 Sept 1873 to Dennis W. Earl

Charles married 1 Jan. 1878 to Olive Scudder

Mary married 5 July 1882 to George A. Gordon

Under Deaths it listed:

John W. Streeter 19 Aug. 1868

Clerk of Courts Books

Editors Note: In the last issue, it was anticipated that an article on the early Ohio courts (1800's) would preface the Inventory of Old Record Books which follows. The incumbent Clerk of Courts and his deputy clerk promised, but were unable to produce, the information requested. The publication deadline precludes doing the extensive research necessary to find this information, so it will have to be included in a later issue of Heir Lines. If any of our readers is aware of a reference to help locate the appropriate material, please let us know about it.

In using the available records, there are 2 indices to check for the earliest ones. They are:

General Index to Court Records. 10 volumes. 1803-1975.

Supreme Court General Index. 1 volume. 1803-1875.

If doing research in Warren County, or having it done, it may prove worthwhile to check these, particularly the former. The indexing is done by 1st letter of the surname and then chronologically. The Clerk of Courts has 2 offices in Lebanon; the Title Section, in the County Administration Bldg. on Silver St., deals with automobile titles and the Legal Section, located in the Common Pleas Court Bldg., 500 Justice Drive. The mailing address is P.O. Box 238 and the telephone number is (513) 932 4040. The Legal Section, where the record books are kept, is open from 9 A.M. to 4 P.M. weekdays only.

These records, generally, deal with litigation between parties and criminal cases.

—Cumberland Presbyterians—

The collection of the Memphis Theological Seminary Library, located at 168 East Parkway South, Memphis, TN 38104, includes two books which refer to the establishment of a Cumberland Presbyterian Church in Lebanon, Ohio in 1835-1836. One book contains a chapter on the origin of the church in Ohio and the other contains a biographical sketch of Rev. Matthew Houston Bone, who was instrumental in the establishment of the church in Lebanon.
 The material was called to our attention by Frances Carter Darnell of 119
 Poplar St., Clarksville, AR 72830, who is a gr gr granddaughter of James Hill Bone, a brother of Rev. Matthew Houston Bone. To these articles, we have added the history of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church of Lebanon from the Beers History of Warren County, plus some Bone family history.

Chapter XXVIII. ORIGIN OF OUR CHURCH IN OHIO.

The same agents of the church college who were the first Cumberland Presbyterian preachers in Pennsylvania also traveled through portions of Ohio in 1829 and 1830 holding meetings and soliciting help for the college. We have no history of their work except the general fact that their meetings often resulted in many conversions. It is known, also, that they did not, during this tour, attempt to organize any Cumberland Presbyterian church.

The first Presbyterian church at Athens, Ohio, was organized by the Rev. Jacob Lindley. The college over which Mr. Lindley presided was also at that town. His interest for this community was so great that he entreated Mr. Morgan to visit Athens while on his way South in 1831, promising to accompany him thither. To this Morgan agreed. They both met a warm welcome from the Presbyterian church at Athens, and also from its pastor, the Rev. Mr. Spaulding. Mr. Lindley speaks in strong terms of Mr. Spaulding's liberality. Mr. Morgan tarried nine days, and preached eighteen sermons. Although it was winter, and bitter cold, the house was crowded, and there were forty-three professions.² Here again, as Mr. Lindley testifies, Morgan resisted the young converts who wanted to be organized into a Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

Before Mr. Morgan's departure, pastor and people united in importuning him to come by Athens when he returned to Pennsylvania in the spring. He gave his promise, and kept it, too; but on his arrival he found a very great change. Mr. Spaulding called on him and told him with deep mortification and sincere regret that his session had become alarmed at the outcry for a Cumberland Presbyterian church, and had resolved to close their doors against Morgan. A leading layman in the Presbyterian church then informed Mr. Morgan that the members of his church had secured the court-house for him to preach in. It was evident that a movement was on foot among these members to secede and join the Cumberland Presbyterians. Mr. Morgan at once declined to preach for them. He was then invited to preach in the Methodist church, which he did, and nearly all of the Presbyterians attended. At the close of his sermon that Sabbath, he was requested to attend a temperance meeting ten miles from Athens. To this request he acceded. The Rev. Mr. Hibbard, a Presbyterian, whose church was six miles distant from Athens, also obtained a promise from Mr. Morgan that he would attend his sacramental meeting, which was to be held the next Sabbath. Morgan left Athens Monday and held his temperance meeting in a grove. An immense concourse of people was gathered. A new distillery owned by two brothers was situated right at the place where this meeting was held. The lecture, though on temperance, was all of it intensely religious. The vast crowd was in tears, and Morgan, at the close of the lecture, called mourners. Many came. He appointed preaching for the next day on the same spot. Before he closed the meeting one of the owners of the distillery and the wives of both of them were converted. The distillery was forever closed. O the power of God's Spirit is the true source of victory against rum and all other works of Satan. Instead of the distillery there arose a house of worship in a community where there had never been one before.

² Fifteen of these afterward entered the ministry.

At the meetings in Mr. Hibbard's church the usual blessing of Heaven followed Mr. Morgan's preaching. About seventy souls professed to be saved. Mr. Morgan had some difficulty in convincing the young converts that no Cumberland Presbyterian church could be organized for them. After he went on to Pennsylvania a large number of people who had attended the two meetings just described, wrote to him to come back and hold a camp-meeting. This he did, Mr. Lindley and his daughter accompanying him.

This camp-meeting was held in Alexander township, six miles from Athens. It was here that the first Cumberland Presbyterian church in Ohio was organized. At this camp-meeting the Rev. Mr. McAboy, of the Presbyterian church, saw his two sons converted. They both entered the ministry afterward, and their father from that camp-meeting till the day of his death, without changing his ecclesiastical relations or having any charges preferred against him, not only adopted Cumberland Presbyterian measures, but preached Cumberland Presbyterian doctrines. His ministry was far more fruitful after he made these changes.¹ This first Ohio camp-meeting was prolific in its results. There were over a hundred conversions, and calls for Morgan's and Lindley's services poured in upon them from all the adjacent counties. Mr. Lindley relates several touching incidents of this camp-meeting. A certain militia captain, who was also dissipated, conspired with a number of rough men to break up the meeting. They entered into a regular organization for this purpose, and elected this militia officer as captain of their band. At the hour for services these men gathered under the trees near the place of worship. Mr. Morgan, before he began his sermon, invited penitents to come forward. Many Christian people rose to their feet and went out through the congregation trying to persuade their relatives to go to the mourner's bench. While this was going on, the brother-in-law of "the captain" came to Mr. Lindley and requested him to go to that promoter of mischief. Mr. Lindley went, accompanied by the brother-in-law. On seeing those Christians approach him, the captain straightened himself up with a defiant look. Mr. Lindley says that at that moment his own soul was overwhelmed with sympathy and an awful sense of this poor sinner's perilous state. So great were his emotions that utterance failed him, and for some time he could do nothing but weep. At length, finding the use of his tongue, he struggled with all his soul to warn the poor captain of his danger. Finally the hardened sinner burst into tears, fell upon Mr. Lindley's neck, and ask that his wife should be brought. When she arrived she also burst into tears, and soon both husband and wife agreed to go to the mourner's bench. As Mr. Lindley led them up to the place of prayer several of the gang of desperadoes followed. The captain had a hard struggle, but he and his wife both found peace in Jesus before the meetings closed.

Another case deserves mention. An aged infidel attended the meeting, sitting afar off and watching. Finally his favorite son was converted, and with a face beaming with the light of heaven, started to find his father. When the old man saw his boy approaching, and looked into his illumined face and heard his tender, loving appeals, he was utterly broken down, and, falling to the earth, began crying aloud for mercy. Nor were his cries in vain. After some delay, and after a beloved minister had patiently instructed him in the way of salvation, he sprang up from the ground where he was lying and told all around what a glorious light had dawned upon his soul.

There was in this neighborhood a skeptic of unusual bitterness toward Christianity. He had an interesting daughter who was very anxious to attend the camp-meeting, but he would not permit her to do so. Mr. Lindley's daughter, Louisa, who had accompanied her father to this community, where she was well acquainted, visited this skeptic with a view to gaining permission for his daughter to attend the camp-meeting. After many failures she finally won a conditional consent. The condition was that Louisa would solemnly promise him that his daughter should not go to the mourner's bench. The promise was made, and the young lady attended. Under Morgan's preaching she became overwhelmingly convicted, and when the call for mourners was made she wanted to go. Louisa went to Mr. Morgan for counsel. He held her to keep her promise, and to take the young lady off to some private place and pray with her there. This was done, and in a few moments the poor girl was rejoicing in the hope of glory, and ever afterward lived a consistent Christian.

When a church was organized, at the close of this meeting, a congregation of Presbyterians in the neighborhood, who were without a pastor, formally seceded from the Presbyterians, and proposed to unite with this new congregation. Mr. Lindley received them, and became their temporary pastor, arranging with Mr. Morgan to take care of Ten Mile until some permanent arrangement could be made for the Ohio flock. This was in the fall of 1832. The next spring Mr. Lindley returned to his Pennsylvania church. The Pennsylvania Presbytery supplied the Ohio congregations with itinerant preaching. These itinerants were changed frequently. The records show that nearly all the members of that presbytery were at one time or another appointed to this Ohio work.

Mr. Lindley had been pastor of the Presbyterian church at Beverly, Ohio, before he took charge of the college at Athens. On his journey to his home in Pennsylvania, in the spring of 1833, he stopped at Beverly, and held a meeting. Great interest was manifested in his preaching, and fifty persons professed conversion. The Presbyterian church at Beverly, which Mr. Lindley had organized long before, was at this time without a pastor, and its members passed a formal act, by unanimous vote, withdrawing from the Presbyterian church, and unanimously resolved to join the Cumberland Presbyterians, and call Mr. Lindley for their pastor. He accepted the call, and, after a brief visit to Pennsylvania, returned to Beverly, where he spent four years in charge of his old flock, preaching, as his elders put on record, the very same doctrines which he had preached thirty years before.

Mr. Lindley said he found a state of moral death in all the country surrounding Beverly. The people had little or no preaching, save in Marietta, the county town. Country pulpits were all vacant, and Sabbath-schools had been abandoned. He therefore arranged with the Beverly church to be allowed to spend one fourth of his time as missionary to the surrounding country. Within a circle of thirty miles he established a round of appointments for his preaching. He tried to do pastoral work in all this vast distance, as well as to preach regularly. He passed none by, calling at great houses and small. He says his sole aim was the salvation of these desolate souls. He took no written sermons. He went forth with his Bible and with a loving heart. He says he looks for sheaves from many a humble home which he visited in this strange field.

In these missionary tours Mr. Lindley visited Senecaville, thirty miles from Beverly. There was a Presbyterian church there, but for a long time it had been without preaching. Mr. Lindley held an eight days' meeting, and had a great revival. The interest stirred the whole country for fifteen miles around. There were great numbers of conversions. The Lancaster Presbytery (Presbyterian), of which Mr. Lindley had been one of the original members, took the alarm. Mr. Lindley says all the members of this presbytery had the same false views about the identity of the Cumberland Presbyterians and the New Lights which he himself had before he investigated the matter. Lancaster Presbytery sent a man to Senecaville to warn the people against the heretics. But he did not investigate the subject before commencing the battle. His attacks were against a man of straw. The good people of Senecaville were much better informed about the Cumberland Presbyterians than he was, and they were disgusted at his ignorance and offended at his injustice. The members of that congregation felt themselves outraged by the severe censures poured out upon them. They met together and formally seceded from the Presbyterian church, and declared themselves Cumberland Presbyterians. This was in the summer of 1835. Mr. Lindley agreed to give one fourth of his time to this church until better provisions could be made.

His first meeting under this new arrangement was to begin on a Friday. It happened that the circus was to be there that day. The gaudy show bills covered walls and fences. The show arrived on time. The great tent was stretched, the brass bands played, flags waved, and mottled harlequins danced on spotted animals as the procession moved around town. But the door-keeper who stood at the entrance of the tent took in not even one single ticket. Mr. Lindley had the crowd. After a little delay the circus tent was taken down and managers and harlequins went on their way in great disgust, cursing the Cumberland Presbyterians.

An elder of the Presbyterian church, near the village of Cumberland attended the great revival at Senecaville. He earnestly pressed Mr. Lindley to hold a meeting in his town. This elder said the church at Cumberland was in a state of spiritual torpor. The house of worship was out of town, built before the town existed. Mr. Lindley sent an appointment for a meeting in the town. A large unfinished dwelling-house, whose partitions were not yet erected, was used for this meeting. God revived his work. Many souls were converted; but the Presbyterian pastor stood aloof and opposed. Mr. Lindley visited him, and tried to win him, but failed to elicit the slightest expression of concern for the salvation of the unconverted; though the pastor did try to be polite, and played the violin beautifully for the entertainment of his visitor. Other engagements calling Mr. Lindley away, he sent the Rev. Isaac Shook to Cumberland, in 1835, and the latter organized a church of our people in that town.

One of the towns in which Rev. M.H. Bone (one of the college agents) preached was Lebanon, Ohio. He had a very interesting meeting there. The people begged him to remain and organize a church. This he could not then do. In 1835 he was earnestly importuned by letters from the Lebanon people to return. They had seen and learned still more of the ways and doctrines of the Cumberland Presbyterians, and were anxious to be identified with them. Mr. Bone, therefore, made another visit to that town. A congregation was organized, and he consented to remain one year as their pastor. The same year he appointed a camp-meeting, and wrote for Hugh B. Hill and T.C. Anderson to assist him.¹ They both lived in Tennessee, but they responded promptly to Mr. Bone's appeal. Owing to failure in boat and stage connections they arrived too late for the camp-meeting.

Mr. Bone started a movement for building a meeting-house at Lebanon, but for some reason he gave up his charge and returned to the South. Before doing so, however, he obtained the consent of Rev. Felix G. Black to take charge of the little church. Black was a pastor in the true sense, and did good service in this congregation. From eleven original members the church in three years grew to one hundred and thirty-eight. This growth was all under systematic and steady pastoral work. It contributed systematically to all the benevolent enterprises of the church. It paid its pastor's salary in full, and was spiritually alive and active.

The old church bell at Lebanon has a curious history. When Spain confiscated the property of the convents this bell was sent to New York and sold at auction. It brought two hundred dollars. It was cast in 1636 for a convent. It was the first church bell ever rung in Lebanon, but it now calls not nuns but Cumberland Presbyterians together. It has a Spanish inscription upon it calling on the Virgin to "pray for us."

In 1833 there were supplies appointed by the Pennsylvania Presbytery for two Ohio churches--Waterford and Athens. In 1834 supplies were appointed for four Ohio congregations--Athens, Alexander, Waterford and McConnellsburg. The Rev. James Smith and the Rev. Joseph A. Copp, made a preaching tour through that state in the winter of 1833-34. Smith says the Presbyterian pulpits were everywhere closed against them. In 1835 a grand forward movement was made by Cumberland Presbyterians in Ohio. The Rev. Isaac Shook spent that year in this field. T.C. Anderson and Hugh B. Hill were also there, as was S.M. Aston. Three or four of the ministers of Pennsylvania Presbytery were also working part of their time in this field. Aston held a good meeting at Jacobsville, and organized a church there.

The Covington congregation has an interesting history. When the Rev. F.G. Black succeeded Mr. Bone as pastor at Lebanon he found on the church-book the name of Benjamin Leavell. There was no such man living in Lebanon. On inquiry he learned that this was Judge Leavell, who lived fifty miles away. Owing to his dissatisfaction with the hard points of Calvinism he had withdrawn from the Presbyterian church and joined the Lebanon congregation, there being no other Cumberland Presbyterian church nearer his home. On receiving this information, Mr. Black mounted his horse and started on a pastoral visit fifty miles. He had to swim one canal before reaching his parishioner. The Judge told Mr. Black that before he heard of the Cumberland Presbyterians he had made out a system of theology for himself. On a business trip to Cincinnati he stopped to spend the Sabbath at Lebanon. Bone and others were holding a meeting there. He went to hear them. To his surprise and delight they preached his system of doctrine, a medium system between Calvinism and Arminianism. He therefore joined the new church. Then the Judge told his pastor about a town called "Rowdy", noted for its drunkenness and other vices, and induced him to visit the place and hold a meeting. The first services were in a little school-house. Other visits followed, and finally in 1838, Mr. Black organized a congregation. "Rowdy" is now Covington. The church there to-day numbers four hundred and nineteen members. It contributed to church enterprises last year (1885) ten thousand dollars. It keeps a regular pastor. Two faithful ministers have grown up among its members, the Rev. W.H. Black, of St. Louis, and the Rev. J.A. Billingsley. It has just built an elegant house of worship, and it maintains a high standing for liberality and efficiency in church work.

The Cumberland Presbyterian church in Ohio has never been strong in numbers. There are at this time (1886) only three presbyteries in the State; one with eight ordained ministers and no candidates, another with five ordained ministers and one candidate, and a third with four ministers and no candidate. Preaching on a call to the ministry, and praying the great Head of the church to call their own sons to this holy work, are clearly the urgent duties of our Ohio ministry and people. A home supply of preachers and provisions for their education, would certainly improve the prospect of the church in that State. In this field, as well as several others, we have this strange phenomenon: Much larger donations have been made by some of our own members to the colleges of other churches than have ever been made to our own institutions.

Cumberland Presbyterian Church of Lebanon

This church was organized March 20, 1836, by Rev. Jacob Lindley, D.D., a member of the Pennsylvania Presbytery of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. The organization was effected in a room occupied by Mrs. Ruth Parshall as a school-room, on Mulberry Street. They worshiped during the first year of their history in the old court house, corner of Main and Broadway. Their present house of worship, on Mechanic Street, was built in 1837, with an addition in 1848. The organization was entered into with the following members, viz., Amos Smith and Micajah Reeder, Mary H. Smith, Lydia Cowan, Ruth Parshall, Abraham Van Doren, Julia Lawson, Elizabeth Van Note, Eliza M. Lawson, Maria Van Doren and Ann Lawson. The first-named two were Ruling Elders. Rev. Matthew Houston Bone, D.D., of Anderson Presbytery, Ky., was the first pastor, serving one year--1836-37. Rev. Felix G. Black, of Logan Presbytery, Ky., entered upon the pastorate and served about fourteen years, or from 1837 to 1850. He was succeeded by Rev. J.H. Coulter, of Miami Presbytery, who remained with the congregation four years, or from 1851 to 1855. Rev. J.N. Edmiston, of Tennessee, took charge of the church in 1855, and continued in said office until November, 1865. He was succeeded by Rev. S. Richards, D.D. of Illinois, who remained one year, or, from 1866 to 1867. Rev. S.F. Anderson, D.D., of the Pennsylvania Presbytery, served about two years--1868 to 1870. Rev. J.P. Sprowls took charge of the church in 1871, and is still in the pastorate. The following members have been elected to the office of Ruling Elder in the congregation, viz., Amos Smith, Micajah Reeder, Aaron Van Note, William Russell, John Conrey, John Pauly, Samuel Kell, Francis B. Howell, William F. Patshall, J.M. Conrey, William Evans, James D. McCain, Amos S. Bennett, Martin A. Jameson, William F. Dill, Jacob M. Sellers, David P. Bennett, David F. Colbert, William Houston Bone. The last five named on the above list constitute the present session of the church. About 600 persons have been connected in membership, a vast majority having joined on the profession of faith. The present membership is 150.

Matthew Houston Bone was born May 24th, 1803, near Statesville, Wilson County, Tennessee. His father, Hugh Bone, and mother, Mary Hill, were both of Scotch-Irish lineage, and reared in the same community in Iredell county, North Carolina. They inherited religious and Presbyterian proclivities from a long line of pious ancestors. Naturally of good constitutions, strong minds, and christian habits, well confirmed under the teachings of that eminent divine, Rev. James Hall, D.D., they were fully qualified to take position as heads of a family and train their children for God and the Church, which they did. Seven children, five sons and two daughters, were born unto them, of which Matthew Houston, named for a prominent Presbyterian divine of that day, was the sixth. His early education was very limited, the country contiguous to his father's house affording very meagre facilities in that regard. His boyhood years were spent in tilling the soil of his father's farm in connection with his brothers. This laid the foundation of a good physical constitution. His moral training, it hardly needs to be said, was in strict accord with the standard erected in the Abrahamic Covenant. This created the basis of what has been ever since, a strictly religious life, and an entire consecration to his God. On the 9th of September, 1821, at a camp-meeting at Good Providence, Union County, Kentucky, he embraced, by faith, all the blessings stipulated and guaranteed in the covenant before mentioned. From the time of his early boyhood the thought had predominated in his mind, that some day he would be a preacher. Now that the seal of the covenant had been applied more directly to his heart through the washing of regeneration and the belief of the truth, he felt that the time had arrived to take the initiatory steps. With this intent he presented himself before the Anderson presbytery, then convened, October 1822 at Mt. Pleasant meeting house, Muhlenburg County, Kentucky, and was accepted as a candidate for the office of the holy ministry. It was the custom in those days, institutions of learning being rare, for old preachers to take probationers into their families to teach and train them for the work. He, and one other, a kinsman of about the same age, were taken in by the good Dr. Johnson, pastor of his father's church, who kindly lent them the aid of his counsel and gave them one corner of his kitchen for a studio, (house-room being scarce.) Here in good earnest he entered upon the business before him, and added much to his hitherto scant stock of information. His limited apprenticeship with Dr. Johnson having ended, he passed through several interrupted periods of pupilage under different teachers--Weller, Hinton and Ogden were some of them. Improving every possible opportunity and applying himself closely to study, he was enabled to acquire the rudiment of a very good English education. Considerable advancement too, had been made during the time, in the study of theology. In April 1825, he was licensed by Anderson presbytery and went out upon the Henderson circuit to preach the Gospel. This he did faithfully and energetically, preaching once, and often twice a day whenever circumstances demanded, until towards the close of his term, he was prostrated by an attack of intermittent fever, brought on by his excessive labors and exposure to the rigorous winter weather. To the Rev. Joel Lambert of Henderson, Kentucky, he was indebted for shelter and many kind attentions during his illness.

At the next meeting of the presbytery he was ordered to "ride and preach on the Christian circuit". Another spell of fever followed towards the close of his labors on this circuit, superinduced, no doubt, as was the other, by his continued exposure to the inclement weather. Again recruited, this time at the house of his friend George McLean, he was sent no more to his circuit (his place in the meantime having been filled by another); but was assigned to the "Corps of Camp-Meeting Preachers," with whom for a time, he energetically co-operated in holding many excellent meetings. His services while on the Henderson and Christian circuits, were attended with the divine blessing, and proved to him, a young man just starting out, a source of great encouragement. Many souls were converted, and not a few added to the Church, some of whom afterwards became honored heralds of the cross of Christ.

While a member of the camp-meetings corps, an incident occurred, which is worth recording. An interesting meeting in which all participated had just closed at Eddy Grove, Kentucky. Another was to be held at McAdow. The older preachers could not attend the first day. M.H. Bone was sent to deliver the opening sermon. On Wednesday morning, horseback and alone, he set out on a two day's journey to the place of meeting. Fully impressed with the weight of the responsibility, riding along he began to revolve in his mind upon what subject he should preach. Wednesday, Wednesday night, and all day Thursday were spent in fruitless efforts in coming to a conclusion. Thursday night he stopped to lodge at the house of a friend near the camp-ground with mind yet dark, and gloomy forebodings for the morrow. At a late hour he retired to bed, but not to rest. In tears and prayers and groans he spend the most of the night, until tired nature asserting itself he fell asleep. In the morning he awoke, his heart to his astonishment was light and buoyant, his mind serene and clear as a sunbeam. During his slumber, in a dream a text had been impressed upon his mind, which until then, he had not known was in the Bible. "I have compared the, O my love, to a company of horses in Pharaoh's chariot."--Songs of Solomon, i.9. Springing out of bed he hastily examined the place and found it as it had been revealed to him. The sermon was in full and clear detail before his mind. Thus inspired, he went to the camp-ground and preached with great power and boldness the subject as it had been communicated to him, to a large concourse of people in waiting. The Spirit of the Most High came down, sinners were cut to the heart, the cry for mercy went up and continued without intermission until the following Tuesday, when it was found between eighty and one hundred persons had embraced the Savior. It was a glorious meeting and one long to be remembered by all who participated in it.

For the three years next succeeding, he was appointed to assist young preachers on their circuits, in holding sacramental and two day's meeting. This he did as a sort of "presiding elder." He retained his place, however, on the camp-meeting corps, and attended generally from ten to fifteen meetings of this nature during one year.

In October, 1828, he was ordained by the Anderson presbytery at Bethlehem church, Caldwell County, KY. Rev. John Barnett preached the ordination sermon, and Rev. David Lowry presided and gave the charge.

In May, 1829, he was commissioned a general agent to travel and solicit funds and patronage for Cumberland College. This work he entered upon in conjunction with Rev. John W. Ogden, travelling and preaching together, through the upper counties of Kentucky, southern Ohio, western Pennsylvania, and Virginia. Throughout all this country Cumberland Presbyterianism was, up to this time, comparatively unknown. They were well received wherever they went; but were less successful in obtaining money and patronage for the college than in propagating the doctrines of their Church. Large crowds attended their preaching, and in many places extensive revivals, and souls in great numbers won over to Christ, were the fruits of their efforts. In one place, Lebanon, Ohio, they laid the foundation of that which afterwards was not only a very flourishing church, but the beginning of what is now known as the Miami presbytery.

In November following he returned, rendered his report to the presbytery and resigned his commission. His little stock of means becoming exhausted, some discouragement arose about this time in reference to a temporal support. The church did not afford it. To guard against the future recurrence of this, he set about preparing for the practice of medicine; engaging, however, to preach two Sabbaths in each month for the people of Elkton, KY. Before the year was out they had arranged for his ample support, upon condition that he would abandon the study of medicine. This he consented to do, and thereupon proceeded to organize a church of eleven members, and remained for a number of years their regular pastor. The year succeeding the organization, an extraordinary revival of religion sprang up in this church, which continued uninterruptedly for six months; during this time one hundred souls were converted, three-fourths of whom joined the church, making it thereafter an organization of great strength and influence in that community.

On the 3rd of June, 1832, his responsibilities in life were greatly increased by leading to the hymenial altar Miss Emily W. Phillips, daughter of Thomas Phillips, a citizen of Todd County, Kentucky. An accomplished, christian lady, he found in her, a help-meet indeed. Shortly after marriage he and his wife became Principals of a female school at Elkton, which greatly flourished under their management, and afterwards culminated in the Green River Female Academy.

After two years of faithful and laborious teaching he undertook a self-appointed mission to Lebanon, Ohio. A few friends at that point had for five years, since his first advent among them, repeatedly solicited a renewal of his visit; but until now no opportunity had presented. Promising, if unsuccessful in this mission, to return to his charge in Elkton, he set out June 15, 1835, in the midst of a cholera epidemic which he found raging with fearful violence in every town through which he passed, until he reached his destination. There he learned to his great delight that it had ceased its ravages. Into the house of David Bone, Esq., a distant relative and prominent citizen of the place he was kindly received and furnished every accommodation for himself and family, free of charge.

David Bone was no ordinary individual--lofty in his airs, generous in his feelings and noble in his purposes, he took this preacher and family not only into his own home but into his heart, and though not a member of any church himself contributed largely of his means and of his influence to place Cumberland Presbyterianism in that town upon a firm footing. The Cumberland Presbyterian Church and its doctrines, up to that time, as it has been in another place remarked, were comparatively unknown there; but this zealous missionary was not long in bringing them into general notice and favor. For several months he was invited to preach each Sabbath, alternately, in the differnt churches. This was the means of giving him a pretty general introduction. He soon established a preaching place of his own. The Town Hall was secured for this purpose.

The attendance was at first small but gradually grew into larger numbers, until the hall would no longer accommodate them. A congregation of eighteen persons was very soon organized, twelve of whom came from the Old School Presbyterian Church in one certificate, among them one elder. Dr. Lindley, of eastern Ohio, assisted him in the organization. Shortly after, the gifted Noel, lending the aid of his ministerial services, a gracious outpouring of the Spirit was experienced, resulting in the conversion of a goodly number of persons most of whom united with the new congregation; and before the next year was out a neat and commodious church edifice had been erected. See what one man with determined effort can accomplish. Here was a preacher with scarcely a dollar in his pocket, nothing to rely upon but the hand of the Lord to sustain him, yet with confidence in His might setting out for a country far beyond the bounds of his church's influence, where its doctrines were but little known, and he almost a stranger, yet in a few short months successful in organizing a congregation, building up a large Sabbath school, and otherwise contributing to the introduction of an element, which taking deep root has gone on growing and extending until through the many off-shoots it has penetrated, and exists to this day, throughout all that country. Why cannot young preachers in this day and time go and do likewise?

But the condition of his family did not long permit him to remain with this people. His wife's health failing, he was compelled to return with her to her father's house in Kentucky. In a few months her strength having to some extent recuperated, he was enabled to enter upon the business of house-keeping, which he did on a little farm adjoining the town of Elkton, a gift of the father -in-law to the daughter. At the same time he resumed charge of the church in Elkton, and took into his family, as was the custom at that time, three young men, condidates for the ministry, to instruct them in literature and theology, viz: G.W. Bone, G.D. McLean, and James Frazier; also, W.G.L. Quaitte as a boarder. All these remained with him until in 1838, he suffered the direful misfortune to have his house, with all its contents, destroyed by fire. This, the work of an incendiary, occurred on Saturday, while all were away from home. The tears of his grief had scarcely dried over the loss of a tender infant of eleven month, in Ohio; his wife's health still remaining very feeble, and now this heavy calamity by fire overtaking him, it was indeed a time of great discouragement. His trust in God, however, never faltered. Kind friends, in a great measure, restored his losses, and at once he set about rebuilding.

He continued to preach to the church in Elkton; but in a little while they grew careless as to their pledges. His father-in-law was a man of generous impulses, and had done much to assist him. He thought, and that rightly, that it was the duty of the church to support its pastor. The church seemed to think that the father-in-law ought to do it. Under these circumstances Mr. Bone grew discouraged, and resolved, in the support of his family, to make himself independent of the church. In this he was perhaps a little hasty, and forgetful of his favorite motto: "Jehovah-jireh." He read medicine during the week, and preached to his congregation every Sunday. In November, 1839, he entered the Medical College at Louisville, Ky. He attended lectures until February, when the rapidly declining health of his wife compelled him to return to her. He remained by her bedside, closely watching and nursing her, until April, following, when her pure spirit left its tenement and winged its flight to the God who gave it. No higher eulogy could be passed, or more glowing tribute paid to the memory of her virtues, than to say that she was in the truest and fullest sense of the word, a preacher's wife. The loss of such a companion, and that, too, in the early years of married life, no man can realize who has never experienced it.

In June following the demise of his wife, to seek relief from a burdened and troubled heart, he set out upon a tour of traveling. Peregrinating the country for a time he came, at last, by special invitation, to the house of Rev. Robert Donnell, of Athens, Ala. "Uncle Bob", as he was familiarly, though affectionately, called by almost everybody who knew him, had been an old friend of his father. With him Mr. Bone spent most of the summer, assisting in holding camp-meetings, until August, when he was stricken down and lay prostrate six weeks with a severe attack of intermittent fever. Recovering, he set out to visit his two little children in Kentucky, promising on his return to assume the pastorate of the churches at Athens and Huntsville, Ala. Owing to one or two relapses on the way, he did not reach Kentucky until late November, where he arrived considerably emaciated and worn down by protracted sickness. Recruiting his health in a good degree at the house of his father-in-law during the winter, he returned to Alabama in February, to fulfill his engagement with the churches at Athens and Huntsville. Here he did some very efficient work, reorganizing and revivifying these two churches, until the close of the year he contracted to devote all his time to the interest of the one at Huntsville. He continued as shepherd of this flock, going in and out before them for four years, during which time he had the satisfaction of seeing the church under his guidance greatly strengthened and built up, both spiritually and numerically.

In August, 1842, he was married the second time, to Mrs. Martha H. Weaver, a lady of strong natural mind and attractive physical features, a fast friend to preachers, and a zealous member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. She has proven to him throughout the thirty-six years of their married life, ever the sympathizing companion and faithful spouse. At the time of their union he was the father of two children, and she the mother of two, by their former marriages. But scarcely eighteen months had elapsed ere they were called to stand over the graves of each of their first-born; the burial rites of both happening upon the same day.

The superintendence of a large estate having devolved upon him by reason of his second marriage, he resigned his charge over the church at Huntsville, and took up that of one near the Three Forks of Flint river, called Bethlehem. At about the same time he commenced to preach to the people of Lowville, (since called Maysville,) a little village two miles from his residence.

A small church was soon organized here, and a neat house of worship erected. They called it Ewing Chapel. For two years he faithfully dispensed the word of life to these congregations, both of which during the time, experienced many gracious outpouring of the Spirit, and large accessions to their numbers.

In July, 1854, he received and accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Cumberland Presbyterian Church at Nashville, Tenn. He served these people three years, greatly to their spiritual edification and growth in grace; but owing to entanglements of a business character, connected with his wife's estate in Alabama, he thought it best, much as regretted it, to give up his connection with this congregation.

He next traveled for two years in the interest of Cumberland University, at Lebanon, Tennessee, soliciting patronage and funds for its endowment. A large number of notes, taken by other agents, were put into his hands for collection, with some of which he was successful; with others not.

He returned then to his home in Alabama, and took charge again of the church at Maysville. At the same time was ordered by the Tennessee presbytery to organize out of the two old churches, Bethlehem and Liberty, which, by a recent act of the presbytery, had been consolidated, a new one, to be called the Meridian Church, and to be located at Meridianville. He accomplished this work greatly to the satisfaction of the people, and to their spiritual upbuilding and growth in Christ, and continued ministering to them, alternately with the congregation at Maysville, until 1860, when he accepted a call to the church at Winchester, Tenn.

Winchester at that time presented quite a promising field for usefulness. Two female schools were located there, to which a large number of young ladies were sent every year to receive moral and intellectual training. The place was noted for its healthful location, beautiful scenery and pleasant society. Many were seeking to acquire homes there for the benefit of its social and literary advantages, in which last respect it bid fair to become quite a center. But the war coming on put a stop to all enterprises of a peaceful character, and greatly circumscribed the efforts of the preacher. In spite, however, of the many adverse circumstances surrounding him, Mr. Bone for the first two years of the war stood at his post, battling the cause of his Heavenly Master. In January, 1863, the "Confederates" occupied the town, and took possession of all the church houses, but in the July following retired to the south side of Tennessee river, leaving Winchester and its inhabitants within the "Federal" lines.

Mr. Bone's avowed sentiments and open sympathy with the South rendered him somewhat obnoxious to the Federal commanders. To avoid arrest and perhaps imprisonment, he resolved to retire to his home in Madison County, Alabama, whither with his wife and daughter-in-law he went, and in great quiet and unobtrusiveness, spent the remainder of the war teaching in a little country school.

Hostilities ended, and peace declared, he returned once more to his people in Winchester, whom he found greatly distracted and cast down on account of their recent disasters. The ordeal through which they had passed was very trying, and its demoralizing effects were plainly visible, both upon the minds and morals of the people. He at once set about the work of consoling and reanimating them. The church house, which during the war had been greatly abused by the soldiery, was cleaned and refitted, preaching in it resumed, and the standard of the cross once more erected before the people. Not many months after, a glorious revival of religion was experienced, causing the membership to be greatly built up in the Gospel and numerically strengthened. The Sunday school was reorganized, grew into large proportions, and became indeed the nursery of the church. The female school also revived and bid fair for a time to regain its former prosperity and usefulness, but fell into trouble in respect to its finances, it somehow lost the title to the property and died eventually a cruel death. Mr. Bone, who had in the meantime become its Associate President, did all in his power to save it, but without avail. Following this a deep and overpowering lethargy seemed to take hold upon the church. For several years they failed to make the pastor's salary, notwithstanding his repeated efforts, by a liberal cancellation of their indebtedness, to aid them, until finally matters growing continually worse, he felt that in order to save the integrity of the church and preserve his own self respect, it was his duty to part with them, which he did.

In April, 1873, he was appointed by the Board of Missions of the Tennessee presbytery, an evangelist, to supply the vacant churches within her bounds with the word and ordinances of the Gospel. He entered upon this work on his seventieth birthday, and for six months, accompanied by his wife as a sort of assistant circuit rider, prosecuted his mission among the destitute churches. The people everywhere received him with gladsome hearts, and listened to his teachings as to one of the fathers.

The Lord was with him, blessed his labors, and much lasting good, it is thought, was accomplished. He has been often heard to say, that this six month's tour was to him the most pleasant epoch in his history; and in all probability will have proven the closing act in the drama of his ministerial life. His career, then, as a preacher having commenced as a missionary. How fitting!

His term of appointment as evangelist under the Board having expired, his physical powers, it was found, had so far given way, by reason of age and other infirmities, he was compelled to desist from any farther attempts at preaching. He retired, therefore, to his old home in Alabama, where he has remained ever since, for the most part confined to his room, a subject of rheumatic paralysis, and extreme nervous disorder. For two years or more he was a helpless invalid, with scarcely voice to talk, and eyesight too defective to read. Through all this trying period his mind remained strong and active, his powers of appetite and digestion good, sleep sound, and assimilation perfect; indeed, was to all outward appearance hale and healthy, but as utterly devoid of strength to help himself as a child of six months. Laterly his muscular powers have somewhat improved, insomuch as to allow him to take short rides in his buggy, and to attend, when the weather is good, the little church of his own planting, still flourishing in Maysville. Occasionally his strength will permit him, sitting in his chair, to give a short exhortation after sermon, to which the people, all, both old and young, listen with the greatest appreciation. His highest delight is still to go to the house of God and attend upon the ordinances of His own appointment. He is frequently heard to declare that his soul yearns to stand once more in the sacred desk and proclaim the truths of the Gospel. He thinks he could do so with more power and plainness than ever before. But this privilege, perhaps, will never more be granted him. Worn down by time and labor, with scarcely strength to walk a step, he spends the dull hours, from morn to night, sitting in his easy chair, or reclining at intervals on his little bed, his faithful, self-sacrificing wife his constant attendant, and doing all in her power to meet his every temporal want. While for supplies of Divine grace to enable him to bear up under his afflictions, he still looks with confidence to that source which, for fifty years of a very chequered life he has never yet known to refuse him or turn him away empty. Waiting, waiting, waiting, for the Master's summons. "It is enough, come up higher."

RESOURCE CENTER, LIBRARY ARE NOW OPEN -

Our Resource Center and Library is now open Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to 4 p.m. More volunteers are needed to staff the Center and assist our Research Committee. Can you help?

We are in the process of purchasing the Warren County Census (on film) of 1820 through 1910. The Library has secured "Ohio Wills, 1803-1850" edited by Carol Willsey Bell, editor of the OGS REPORT. It just might help you.

Non-Warren County members wishing to obtain information of genealogical research should address inquiries to the Center at 300 East Silver St., Leb. OH 45036. The Center is in the basement level of the Old Courthouse, opposite the East Street side entrance.

FIRST FAMILIES of WARREN CO.

Two applications have been received & approved, neither, however is an officer of the Society. "Yours Truly" is a member of First Families in Ohio with two Warren County ancestors and hopes to file his application by press time.

To be eligible your ancestors must have settled in Warren County prior to January 1, 1821. Each direct descendant in turn must have proof of birth, marriage, wills or estate settlements. Secondary are Census, Bible records, and clippings. One dollar should accompany each application. -Chester L. Dunn, Chairman, 201 Highland, Lebanon.

Van Horne Journal & Genealogy

Journal kept by Eliza Van Horne of 1807 journey from New Jersey to Ohio

1807

8th October. 4 o'clock in the afternoon parted with our weeping and valued friends at Scotch Plains. Reached Plainfield and stayed the night. Agreeable to request.

I have commenced my journal to be directed to Mr. Osbourne our friend and their families, we have received kindnesses and attentions that will long live in our memories. At the same time, feel grateful to many very many of other neighbors and friends for their hospitality and friendship, we received proof of and whose good wishes follow us to the state of Ohio, whither we are journeying, our Plainfield friends also merit our thanks and remembrance for their benevolence and respectful attention.

9th. From thence proceeded to Somerset and dined at Mr. Nesbits. Was kindly received by him and family. Then came on to this place, through the north branch. At which place some of the girls stopped for a drink of water. An old lady asked Clara how far we were traveling - Clara answered to the state of Ohio - What, no farther? How far should we go?, says Harriet. Why to Kentucky was the answer. We reached the White House in safety some what fatigued - have surrounded a large table, taken our tea and feel comfortable. My Father and Mother have laid down and are pretty well rested. All appear cheerful and lively and are pretty anxious to go to bed.

10th. Sun not up, breakfast ready and will soon set out. Good morning - Came on to Lebanon township, on the way, met a man and asked him the name of the next place. It is Potters Town, he replied - a large city - found it contained 2 houses! Ascended a hill and came in sight of an elegant garden and summer house: the gate being open, some of the girls entered it, when a Lady met them, invited the family in, and made us two or three glasses of cherry bounce. Took us all about the house and garden, the house furnished superbly in elegant taste; regretted that it was Saturday and that the engagements of the morning would not permit her to escort us some miles on our way. The politeness of Miss Bray (who is the lady mentioned) was signally pleasing; as travelers and strangers, it was so unexpected. We then entered Bethlehem Township and stopping by a stream and grove of trees, spread our table on the grass, got some water from a spring, rested ourselves and went on to the Hickory Tavern. Sun 2 hours high, set out to visit a hill three miles up and a half mile down, very hilly and rough, and in other places sandy. The day uncommonly warm. All pretty much fatigued, when we parted for the night at Bloomsburg, especially my father. This day, on his account, we have all felt distressed. You may think I jest when I say I have walked ten miles this day - but should I add 12 or 15 miles, I should do more justice to my dexterity. I have no blisters, or sore feet, nor have any of the family.

Saturday night.

Sunday morning -

Sun an hour high. Set out for Easton. Pine roads and pleasant country - reach Easton about noon, crossed the Delaware, on an elegant bridge, such a one I never crossed before. It being Sunday and no meeting we were gazing out from morning until night. Indeed, it is such the case every day - I believe we are a wonder to the country through which we pass.

Our numbers, or something takes their attention, they want to know who we are, where from and where we are bound. We passed on to Bethlehem, but wanting our time to reach Allentown, by night, did not stop as we had calculated to see its curiosities - came on to Lehigh, crossed in ferry boats, Got to our lodgings by candlelight. My Father appears much fatigued and very much swelled. My Mother bears the journey well, so does old Elisha.

Monday -

Another fine day, good country and finely cultivated fields, all Dutch people. Came on 18 miles to Hutztown, called and got some good bread and coffee. Stopped at the farm house, once in a while and get a good drink of milk and sometimes pick up some apples, hickory nuts, chestnuts and grapes, and so pass the time well as we can. 4 miles past Kutz Town. We stay to night at a farm house. The Inn, was so full, we could not get accommodations. My Father, to night, seems better, all the rest of the family, pretty smart, Mr. Clark, as lively as ever.

Tuesday evening -

This morning my Father was not so well, today came 22 miles, passed thru Reading, a very smart town. A crowd of Dutch, English and Dunkards, with long beards, were collected at the Court House on the business of the election. This afternoon we left, at the left hand, the road that leads to Lancaster and took the road to Harrisburgh. The next town was called Hopesdale - next town called Myers Town, and the next Lebanon, which excelled them all. The hotel was brick, in the front, and at the end of the building were 32 windows. Two very handsome churches, a pleasant situation for a town, and a handsome country. Then came on to Millerstown, where we stay tonight. My Father has lain down and is in very pretty sleep; was he but well, we could go on cheerfully - there is no place in the world I wish to go but Lebanon. I have not the most distant wish to be settled in any other state, but Ohio - And could my Father enjoy his former state of health, I should have no regrets, - except the presence of our choice friends we have left behind, who in all probability will meet us no more.

Wednesday -

Tomorrow if nothing intervenes, we expect and hope to reach Harrisburg - the waters of the Susquehannah. This afternoon has been very warm - through fatigue of traveling and his disordered state of body, my Father was taken with faintness and talked unintelligently which alarmed us very much - what the event of the journey will be is a matter of painful anxiety to us. - This evening, he appears again pretty strong, far beyond our expectations.

Thursday evening

Friday morning, 16th -

Reached Harrisburgh last evening at this Inn, we have had the poorest accommodations. We have had yet on the road. Dr. Kelso, who lives opposite, came over and invited my Father and Mother to sleep at his house, they have had a comfortable night. We were to cross the Susquehannah this morning. Near a mile in width, we find so very many teams bound for Pittsburgh that we could not cross till 10 o'clock. In the mean while sent for a barber and had my Father cupped. We are since astonished at the change in him, he seemed to enjoy his days ride in observing the buildings, the soil, the timber etc. The road fences are from 7 to 10 and 13 feet high. Barns we see that have 5 windows and 8 doors. The teams that are on the road are surprising in number, we meet dozens returning. One man that passed us said, he had been out with his team with goods from Philadelphia to Pittsburg 90 times. At Harrisburg we were overtaken by Mr. Stockton of Neward and Mr. Schenck bound for Cincinnati. In crossing the Susquehanna this morning, they took in a large dog that was swimming across the river, by shaking himself, the horses took fright and jumped over board, in order to make room for the little wagon in the same boat, we everyone but Thomas, got into the carriage, but being near shore, the horses soon touched bottom and loose themselves, by breaking the harness, but that means, the carriage did not overset and we got safe to land, but met a very great fright. We repaired and started for Carlisle, which we passed and viewed as a town.

Saturday -

Today we were again overtaken by Stockton and Schenck, before we reached Shippensburg. This place is also suken, dirty, stony, unhealthy, rough, disagreeable place - here we parted with Mr. Stockton and Schenck. - They to Chambersburgh, and we to Strausburgh. We have this afternoon no difficulty in obtaining whatever we have wanted for a comfortable and pleasant meal. Good, very good head we have had all the way - This afternoon, my Father and Mother and Mary were in the carriage descending very much rutted and overset. My Father's ear was cut a little - my Mother's shoulder and arm hurt, but no bones broken - nor any serious effects, I believe are to be apprehended. Indeed, my Father, appears quite smart, this evening for him, four miles side of Shippensburg we stay to night at Mr. Nevins Tavern, which I can recommend as an agreeable house for travelers - neat people and kind. The Dutch houses generally are far from neat - not so neat as we could wish for our comfort. I really think they use a broom more frequently in their barns than in their houses. We were so fortunate on the road, as to find a sweeping brush and we found it necessary to insure any degree of comfort at night. Tat Ann and myself went on before to engage a room - went to sweeping and cleaning ready to bring in a bed - and have it made by the time my Father arrived. The orchards, this three days past, we have noticed are full - some of the trees loaded with apples.

Sunday morning -

This morning we entered upon the Blue Mountains. The first 3 miles in length and then another 4 miles and we are now at Gainesburgh. My Mother and all the girls have walked 7 miles and some of them more. We have had snow and sunshine alternately the whole day.

Monday -

We left Tamensburgh this morning and came over the third mountain through Ft. Littleton and slept at the foot of Sideling hill, we find apples plenty and many houses between the mountain shields. The 3 mountains or 3 brothers (as they are called) were tedious. Sidlings hill, also we are to night at Bloody Run at Tates Tavern. We have crossed no mountains today but the hills - I cannot compare them to anything but boisterous waves of the sea, ascent and descent, one rise above another until we are sick of the sight of hills, the views from the mountains of the surrounding hills and mountains were really charming. Such prospects I never beheld. All the tops of the surrounding hills, covered with lofty pines, surrounded and interspersed with chestnut and oaks. The chilling blasts of autumn causes them to look variegated, picturesque and grand. I already think it is a great undertaking to remove a family from Jersey state, to the State of Ohio - was there no invalids numbered among us, it would be something easier - Yet for any family - strenght, fortitude, resolution and a good share of patience is absolutely necessary.

Tuesday morning -

My Father passed a bad night. Oh my friends, you can have no conception of what we suffer in mind to see him so fatigued, so weak and to lay on the floor, so restless, getting up and down without a murmur or a complaint. We are told that we are over the worst of the way, but I place no confidence in the saying. We stay to night (which is Wednesday) at the foot of the Allegheny. We find the atmosphere full of smoke occasioned by the mountains being on fire. We so far have had fine weather but this evening appears like rain, the wind blows very very hard, the light of the fire we can see.

Thursday -

Today we passed through the town of Bedford. The court was set, and when we stopped, were surrounded by gentlemen from different parts interrogating us, where we were from and where journeying to, This three days past, it is unaccountable to tell the travellers we have met, stages, handsome carriages we have met, Gentlemen and Ladies on horseback. Travellers of all descriptions and I cannot tell what. Today we have travelled 20 miles, and I think the Allegheny nothing in comparison to what I had expected, have seen no road as bad as I expected -- but I have seen more bad roads, that is, the way longer afar more hills. At the foot of the mountains - convenient stage houses, with camps before the door - on the top of the mountain, is a spacious double stone house, by a never failing spring, the best water I have tasted since we left the Plains. We have this day, some of us girls walked 15 miles - we are, this evening (which is Thursday) just a fortnight since we left the Plains 75 miles from the waters of Ohio. My Father is very much fatigued, so indeed he is every day, but cannot see much alteration in him for the better or worse. But think he grows weaker and complains mournfully of the dismal, dismal mountains.

Friday -

A cold morning, we passed this day through Somerset, between the Allegheny and Laurel Hill and sleep to night on the top of the hill - when we began to rise the hill there was not less than 40 people in company, with teams, families, on horseback, on foot and every way. We have to night comfortable room and good fire. Many families have to pass on farther for accommodations and they some of them grumble severely about it. It would have been our lot, had not some of us tripped on before (knowing the situation of our family) and engaged a room. There is near 30 to supper in another room and I am astonished at the excellent supper provided by this Land Lady. - I believe to speak with in bounds there is near 80 horses stopped here to night.

Saturday -

We have travelled 13 miles today, and we are on top of Chestnut Ridge to night, 42 miles yet to Pittsburgh, but good roads we are told and will make it in 2 days journey if we keep well. Laurel Hill is justly and properly named, indeed it crowns all the hills for length and roughness - we found men at the foot of the hills, at work upon the road, as we came down. I told them they could not be employed in any business that would please me so well, although I never expect to rise the hill again. I was glad to see them making it better; they told me, there was a handsome sum collected to defray the expense of making the road good to the top of the mountain. The first Tavern below the hill, we stopped and got a dish of coffee for my Father and we laid down to rest. The Land Lady told us that she had known since her residence which was 13 or 15 years, teams returning from Pittsburgh to be 5 days in rising the hill which is 5 miles. It is, my friends a tedious journey indeed for a family, but was I at the Plains now and in circumstances as we were, except my Fathers illness, I would start again. My Brother has driven the carriage over all the hills and mountains and never overset, but it required great care and judgement I assure you. Our horses were in as good spirits, as when we started and I think more gay. We are praised and commended on all travellers for our courage and cheerful deserty; no woman that go the road that excel us in activity. We have forward our horses very much and they look well. On horseback is the pleasantest and safest mode to perform this journey. Was I a gentleman I wouldn't omit it for a trifle for they see the world in American minature, really a little of every thing.

Sunday morning -

My Father has had a very tedious night indeed, has slept but very little. Sister Ann and myself have been up all night, he has had two severe chills and complained of a pain in his side, that his leg pained him, they are very much swelled, so the water drops from them, this morning he is confined to his bed, this we have even feared and apprehended would be our melancholy situation. We are detained, in an indifferent house, far from a house or any friends, not a doctor in 8 miles, nor a town near that we can obtain anything necessary should it be needed, this trying circumstances we feel severely. He sleeps very easy this morning and my Brother has concluded it best for him to go on to Pittsburgh and engage a boat and arrange matters for going down the river - left us with this conclusion that if any alarming change should take place to send Mr. Clark or Thompson (who is with us) with a horse for him, if not any material change and we did not arrive by Tuesday morning he should return to us.

Sunday evening -

My Father has slept quietly all day. We have administered what medicine we thought proper through the day and think him some better tho he has taken very little notice of anything until afternoon, then seemed sensible and easy. How dreadful are our appresions. How wretched our feelings. Unless a very great alteration takes place and I feel very different, my journal must be discontinued through the attention to my Father and fatigue. I penned a more imperfect journal than I could wish so far but my friends must take the will for the deed. All the leisure I got to write, is after the family are in bed and I owe to you I have sometimes repented my promise.

"Lebanon" - Yes my friends I am at Lebanon and until the present could not find leisure or attain a frame of mind adequate to the task of completing my journal.

On Monday - my Father seemed to mend.

On Tuesday morning - he took some breakfast and concluded to start for Pittsburgh.

In 2 days we were within 7 miles of that place, the roads much better and we did not discover that my Father was travelling with any more pain or difficulty than in days previous, but the night before we got to town we discovered his appetite fall.

Thursday morning - took a little breakfast, the rest of the family did not breakfast, until we got into town. Thomas set out to meet us, but heard by a traveller, that saw us that we were coming on. Our wishes all seemed to center in one thing, in one place, that was to be at Pittsburgh. When once there we thought my Father's fatigue would be over, his distress was heavily ours; he himself said to me one day - we think travel fast but I don't know but it's best we get there soon as possible. So indeed it proved, we reached there on Thursday morning and on Saturday night, his soul took its flight we trust to happier regions, no more to bear the fatigues and weary distresses of a Pilgrimage in this life - his situation and the circumstances attending his death you may learn from Mr. Clark, whose attendance was kind and attentive and will not be forgotten. I do not, cannot bear to dwell on this trying circumstances, further than to relate that with greatful remembrance the inhabitants of Pittsburgh. The two Presbyterian ministers Mr. Steele and Boggs. The two doctors a neice of Mr. Cusnions and 2 Mr. Shiras's cousins of my Mothers. The Gentlemen and Ladies of the town and the family where we put up-their friendship, kindness, sympathy and delicate attention merit our warmest acknowledgements and will live in our remembrance. Yes my friends Mr. McCulloughs family (at the sign of the cross keys) with the hospitable, friendly, kind, sympathin inhabitants of Pittsburgh will be long remembered by us. Our utmost desires were gratified in the arrangements of the funeral before we could signify our wishes, with a politeness and delicacy that does honor to human nature and oppressed our hearts with gratitude and affection, so unexpected and so conseling a treatment from strangers, that on the 1st Sabbath of Nov. I felt as if my heart would burst with grief and gratitude. Had this mournful and trying event been permitted, when surrounded by friends and acquaintances that had known my father from the commencement of an early life of piety and virtue or for years, they could not have shown more respect and attention to his bereaved family. Mr. Boggs a young preacher called on Saturday afternoon, but my poor Father was not sensible, he however gave an excellent prayer and sat some time with us, he with Mr. Steele called again in the evening, also Mr. and Mrs. Neal the 2 Mr. Shirms and Mr. Shaw of Philadelphia and others. Mr. Neal and Mr. Shirms stayed all nigh and a widow lady that was called in after my Father's dissolution, stayed with us until Sunday evening and after that hour we were not left alone until, we left the house to spend a day with our cousins. On Sunday at 11 o'clock it was though advisable my Father should be interred owing to the State of mortification which his body was in, which had taken place, we found when at Chestnut Ridge. Mr Steel being the pastor of the church where my Father was buried and the most aged minister, my Mother made application to him to preach a funeral sermon, but having such short notice declined. Mr. Boggs called the same morning my Mother made known to him Mr. Steel's answer. Mr. Boggs said if it was the wish of the family and they would attend in the afternoon, at the Court House, where he preached he would omit his morning service and attend with (Mr. Steele) the funeral in the morning, which was agreed upon. The two clergymen attended Dr. Stephenson and Dr. Cuming and respectable gentlemen of the town were selected to attend, each one of us to the grave and pew door and return with us to the house and in the afternoon again to the Court House. Mr. Steele in his prayer of the morning in an affecting mannor noticed the malancholy event, sang an appropriate hymn and at the commencement of his sermon made some just observation upon a life, long spent in the ministry, of his situation in his declining years, of journeying with his family to provide a home and of a happy discharge from the toils and trials of this life. In the afternoon Mr. Boggs a warm hearted zealous little Virginia preacher took this text, "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord for they do cease from their labors, and their works do follow them," and handled the text I think as my Father would have done or as I have heard him sing the 5th, 6th, & 19th Hymns of the 1st Book. In the forenoon, the 17th and 18th Hymns and "Why do we mourn departed friends."

Sunday evening-

Mr. Steele and his Lady, Mr. Boggs and anumber of others spent the evening with us, in a very friendly way.

Monday morning-

Mr. Shiras and his brother came for us to spend the day with him (in sight of where our bost lay). They had provided such a dinner for us as I have not set down in some years, either in Philadelphia or New York, indeed I don't know as ever, staid all night, took breakfast before sunrise and went on board.

Tuesday morning -

the waters were low but arrangements were made for going down the river, thinking we had rather suffer a long passage than my Father should undergo. 3 boats in company - one called the pilot boat to go before. The time appointed to go was Saturday afternoon, but they consented to wait for us, until Sunday morning, but the event of that day detained them, until Monday afternoon, when they started without us. Tuesday evening we overtook, but supposed very much fear through the day and just at night got fast on a log that lay near the shore, which was the worst stroke that befel us going down the Ohio River. The 3 boats were loaded with goods from New York (except the half of our boat) and the family goods of Mr. Theals of New York for Cincinnati store goods of Mr. McFall, Mr. Bakenwell and page Englishmen.

We had the tedious passage of 4 weeks stopping at Steubenville, Charleston, Wheeling, Marietta, Blenner Hassets Island and Mansion House we saw, stopped also at Gallipolis, a French town and settlement, at Portsmouth and Limestone. All 3 boats sold well at Limestone, as the water was on the rise, none of the boats came on to Cincinnati, but ours, all the passengers with their goods and trunks moved into ours. I think the Ohio River a beautiful River. The shores of Kentucky on one side and Virginia on the other, great part of the way - the water is in a good state it must be delightful. Boats have come from Pittsburgh since we landed in 4 days to Cincinnati. Every circumstance and event seemed to contribute to reconcile us to the bereaving providence we experienced at Pittsburgh, the fatigue my Father had gone through - his weakness of body, which brought on an imbecillity of mind, he seemed weaned from the world and its fleeting enjoyments, his strength of memory and powers of mind seemed greatly changed, seemed unfitted for the enjoyments of life by infirmities that appeared to accumulate and the inconveniences he must have suffered coming down the river, caused us to resign him as much as possible to his God in a better world, who had been merciful and took him to himself, at the fittest moment. But Oh my friends, to be resigned to a separation from such a parent, how severe the task. Our Boat was far the most comfortable of the three. The Pilot and Gun Boat (as they called it) was very much crowded. The ship 7 Sisters, as they named ours, had 2 fire places and a comfortable room, spread down our oil cloth, took out our andirons and prepared for a voyage. My Mother suffered as well as the rest of our family with fear and frights and when we reached Limestone (now Maysville, Ky.) on Sunday morning, My Mother was so reduced she could set up but a little while, there we met a Mr. Sloo, who had frequently been at our house, a brother of Mr. James Duffie of New York. He took my Mother up in town to a Mr. Chambers, sent for his wife who stayed until Monday evening with her. when my Mother came on board at 1 o'clock, at night we started from Limestone and the next evening at candlelight we reached Columbia.

Columbia - and close to the residence of Judge Goforth an old and respected friend of my Fathers, who we found departed his life the Monday after my Father's death. He had promised himself much satisfaction in seeing and conversing with him at Columbia. He died in a happy frame of mind. They had a joyful meeting we trust in the upper and better world. We spent the evening with his lovely aged widow and amiable daughter. I stayed with my Mother in her weak state at Columbia, with Mrs. Goforth; 2 or 3 of the girls at Col. Armstrongs, the rest of the family, went on to Cincinnati in the morning, took breakfast in the boat soon as they landed. Then left the boat with Lawyer Goforth, to visit his house and some of the family at General Ganos.

I stayed a fortnight at Columbia with my Mother, the rest of the family stayed the same length of time at Cincinnati except old Elisha, Richard, Mr. Clark and Thomas, in a few days they moved on to Lebanon. Our Friends at Columbia and Cincinnati and the acquaintances we formed treated our family with every mark of respect and attention that we could wish or expect. The girls say they never in city, town or country lived better or were treated with more attention than at Cincinnati. The best of everything and apples in abundance. I am confident we never eat so many apples in any season that we lived at Scotch Plains, as we have this, when the family were about to leave Cincinnati for Lebanon, Mary came up to Columbia to stay with my Mother (who still keeps her bed alternately) I then went to Cincinnati on Sunday evening. On Tuesday morning we set out for Lebanon.

Sunday evening before we started for Lebanon, my brother returned to Cincinnati, with letters from Mr. Osbourne, containing the information of Mr. Cushings family being at Plains and of their setting out for this place. I could scarce close my eyes all Sunday night thinking where are they, on the water, coming through by land, perhaps sick on the road, or where can they be, but on Thursday morning we reached Lebanon and the first we saw when we stopped at the house that was taken for us, was William standing in the door. He looked very much surprised and seemed as if he had a faint remembrance of us. We had a joyful and sorrowful meeting. They came through by land and had a tiresome tedious journey, the latter part, they all looked thin and pale. So did the female part of our family. But they and we have altered for the better in our appearance. Harriet had gained 26 lbs- I have 14lbs and my Mother still keeps weak and infirm and sometime fear she will never recover her former health but hope as spring advances she will be better we feel thankful to our friends at Scotch Plains for their attention to Mr. Cushings family, and now, my friends we are now all here, a little time and application with health, we shall be in the enjoyment of a comfortable living. We now burn our own fire wood, eat our own sugar and the bread of independence is pleasant to those who have lived in the situation we were sometime before we left Jersey.

None of the family are dissatisfied with the country but the reverse. I am agreeably disappointed for my part in many respects-in Cincinnati and in the town of Lebanon more particularly, this place, the buildings, the inhabitants and the industry of the merchandise of this place is surprising. We have 8 stories in this place, I have been in two of them and they surpass our country stores that I have seen in Essex County, the house we occupy this winter is a small 2 story house (frame) on the corners that lead to Waynesville and Deerfield. On the right hand of us, is Lawyer Peareis office on the left is subb building in which is a printing office, Post Office and State Attorneys Office, records office and the store opposite a genteel tavern, several handsome brick buildings close in site intermixed with frame ones and some more going up. It is a stirring lively place and in the spring I think it will be delightful. We have a great many visitors more than I can enumerate, a goodly number of Jersey people, young gentlemen from every part almost from New York, Newark, different parts of Jersey, from Delaware, from different parts of Pennsylvania, from Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky, Cincinnati, Franklin Dayton, Waynesville, Urbana and the generality of them, well educated, genteel, agreeable young men and we have been happy in finding in the different towns a small number (in comparison) handsome, genteel, agreeable young ladies. Yesterday the young gentlemen of this place went out with some of my sisters to see our land where we are clearing and making sugar for the first time. They are much pleased with the situation and the land can be no better.

In time of sleighing 4 sleighs in company went to Waynesville from Lebanon to visit an English gentleman who had married a Miss Mercer, a sister of Archibald Mercer of Newark, we then rode through our land and I am much pleased with it. How many in this state are under strange delusions, with respect to religion and form of worship. The shaking Quakers for one sect, it is awful to behold them, one but can give you no idea of my feelings at beholding them in their wild Indian Pow wow and dancing some spectators paint some shedtears and others tremble while others laugh and ridicule them. The new lights (as they are called) are nearly as wild and disorderly as the Shakers, their society is composed of Baptist and Presbyterian and there is also a Methodist society and a regular Baptist society in this place and vicinity. - There are a good many number of respectable and able families that belong to the Baptist society. Their preacher is a plain good serious tender feeling, firm uniform Rev. Dave Clark. There are also some Presbyterians. How much and universally is the death of my dear Father lamented in this State. One says Oh! that I could have seen him once more - another, Oh! that I could have heard him preach once more; that it had been so permitted, that I could have conversed with him one half hour. I wanted to ask him this question and then that and so on; tears rolling down their cheeks, acknowledging the justice of God, in disappointing them when they were so elated with the idea of his assistance and the enjoyment of his society.

Editor's Note: The preceeding journal was submitted by Harriet E. Foley of Franklin, OH who received it from Karl Van Horne of Tuscon, Arizona along with permission to use it in Heir Lines. She also furnished the following genealogy of the Van Horne line, the source of which is given in her notes at the end.

This was one of the earliest families to settle in Warren County, OH. A deed dated 1797 conveys, to William Van Horne from Benjamin Stites, one section of land, or 640 acres, described as the whole of Section 30, 5th Township, 3rd Range. This is the land just east of the Lebanon city limits and runs from Wilmington Road north to Monroe Road.

Eliza Van Horne's journal was kept for many years in the safe at the Van Horne Tube Co. on 6th Street E. of the depot in Franklin. The book, History of Franklin in the Great Miami Valley, by Mabel Eldridge and others (1982) has, on page 133, pictures of Bob Van Horne and the Tube Company building.

Ohio Silk Industry

THE OHIO SILK INDUSTRY OF THE 1840'S

At some point in the mid-1840's, silk worms were introduced into the Ohio River regions. Smuggled out of Manchu China, it was believed that the multitude of mulberry trees offered the opportunity to create a silk industry in the Middle West. As such, it was a failure of little note and, as such, has never received mention in published histories. Warren county was one of the focal points of this endeavor.

John Davis Mills, a former Springboro resident, wrote to his cousin, Leila Williss, of Lincoln, Nebraska, in 1932, about the establishment of silk worm colonies in Warren county:

"The silk worm was about four inches long and one-and-a-half inches in diameter. They fed on mulberry leaves. When young, they were supplied with brush to attach themselves to. They first made an air-tube shell some four inches long and two inches in size. They made a noise while spinning. As soon as they were quiet, they were put into an oven to kill them, as they would cut a hole out to get air. The hole would cut the thread to pieces. The mother worm laid her eggs on a sheet of blotting paper and was kept in a keg. The worm stayed in a paper house all winter up until the month of May. Then it came out like a small humming-bird."

"When she (i.e., Elizabeth Williss Mills, his mother) was about 20 years of age, 1846/1847, there was the attempt to get young girls to raise silk worms. She undertook it and got enough silk for two dresses. She got a city dressmaker to make them. One was her wedding dress of the raw silk. I think the dress is still in the Clark Co. museum in Lebanon."

Editors note. The above information was sent to Heir Lines by William Paul Hunt. The Warren County Museum at Lebanon does not know anything about the silk wedding dress so, if it is to be found, it must be located at a museum in Clark County. Does anyone of our readers know anything about either the dress or the silk industry of this period?

Mr. Hunt also sent an excerpt from his book The Historical Genealogy of Elijah Chance Willis and Rachel Wilson. It is on the E.C. Willis Mill Near Springboro, Ohio and will be published in the next issue of Heir Lines.

SHAKERS of UNION VILLAGE

Editor's note: The following list of persons living at Union Village in 1850 is taken from the U.S. Census for that year. Every effort was made to copy the names correctly, but there are those, as always, that are hard to read. These are designated by a (?). A (B) or (M) following the age is taken from column 6, which designates color. Column 5, indicating the sex of the person, is omitted since the groupings are by sex within a Shaker family. Information given is name, age, occupation, and place of birth.

A Visit to Union Village in 1846

Editor's Foreword: The following account presents a picture of Union Village, near Lebanon, in 1846. Since life and conditions at Whitewater would have been similar to Union Village, this report is included so that the reader might visualize what was transpiring at Whitewater during that period.

This unusual account of Union Village was published in 1849 in the book Our Cousins in Ohio, written by Mary Howitt, well known English authoress. A true story, it was based on excerpts from the diary of Mary Howitt's late sister, Harriet Aldersen.

As it happened, Harriet Aldersen and her husband, Judge Harrison Aldersen, with their children resided, in 1846, in Delhi Township, four miles west of Cincinnati. During that year the Aldersens and their daughter Florence journeyed for several days around southwestern Ohio. They stopped at the Shaker community of Union Village. Although the day was Sunday, when little could be seen of the every-day life of the people, Harriet Aldersen recorded in her diary what she and her family observed of the unique community.

Mrs. Aldersen died shortly after and Judge Aldersen sold his estate, "The Cedars," to the Sisters of Charity of Cincinnati. The grounds became the site of Mt. St. Vincent Academy, today the location of Seton High School in Price Hill.

Mary Howitt, English writer, using her late sister's firsthand report, penned the following account of Union Village.

"Union Village, which terminated the rich district of the sugar maples, struck our friends at the first moment of entering, by its character of thriving industry: its gardens, orchards, fields, and even woods, at the first glance, was very attractive. The buildings stood irregularly, and were of various sizes and designs, for the various purposes to which they were devoted: yet, although scrupulously clean and neat, they exhibited no marks of taste, such as vine-covered verandahs, or roses and honeysuckles, climbing up their fronts: and the want of this our flower-loving friends regarded as a great failing. But the Shakers strip the outward of all embellishment, and therefore give but little encouragement to flowers, as being too pleasing to the corrupt nature which they wish to mortify. Some of the dwellings were large, containing from eighty to a hundred inmates, both men and women; but it was a sort of union workhouse, where parents and children, husbands and wives, were no more to each other than mere neighbors.

"This Union Village is divided into upper and lower, about half a mile apart, and a footpath of a single plank connects the two; for it is not seemly for a man and woman of the Shaker persuasion, although they call one another brothers and sisters, to walk here side by side; everybody goes singly; nay, so far is this separation carried out, that different breadths of carpet are laid down in the dining room, the one for the men, the other for the women.

"As Florence and her mother walked through the village, the boys and girls were just coming out of school, walking two by two in separate parties across the green to the chapel, a neat and low building, not unlike a Friends' meeting-house. The boys looked like little old men; they were dressed in gray pantaloons, and long-waisted black jackets, with laps like old men's waistcoats and broad brimmed straw hats. The girls wore brown stuff gowns, small clear muslin handkerchiefs, pinned down in front, and a very peculiar straw bonnet, called a Shaker bonnet, with a buff cotton curtain behind, and no ribbon excepting for strings.

"When they reached the second village, Florence, who was very thirsty, begged her mother to ask for a glass of water for her. Her mother, accordingly, knocked at the door of a large pea-green house, and asked the favor of a draught of water for the child, from a little, ruddy, well-fed, elderly man, in gray pantaloons, long-lapped waistcoat, and a red-brown, large, loose dressing-gown, who, evidently, not wishing to receive a woman and a little girl under his roof, said, 'Walk in, strangers, but take the door to the left!'

"They did so and found there a tall, thin elderly woman sitting at an open window reading in the Bible. On seeing them she rose and handed them chairs. Their visit was evidently agreeable to her. She was very communicative and told them many things about the community and their way of life. She said that it certainly was the best that could be thought of; for that they all lived in peace, had all they wanted, and were removed from the temptations of the world. Their friends, she said, came to see them sometimes, at first; but they soon ceased to care much about them, or to wish for much intercourse with them. She gave Florence's mother a book called 'The Testimony of the Shakers,' and told her to read it, and there she would learn what their principles were, and also something of their history.

"She said that there were seventy people living in that house; that they had each their separate room, besides a room set apart for the purposes of devotion; that they manufactured almost all of their own clothes; and she made Florence's mother try on her bonnet, which was made of woven straw, pasted on pasteboard, and varnished. Her dress was a brown calamanco petticoat, and gray cloth slippers; her chemise sleeves reached half way below the elbow; and around each arm a narrow black ribbon was tied, as a sign of mourning for a departed brother, who had passed away the day before, and who had been interred that morning. She wore a very neat habit-shirt, buttoned to the throat, with a small turn-down collar; and over her shoulders a buff muslin handkerchief, pinned tight down like the girls'. Her gray hair was combed back from her high forehead; and she wore a hood-like cap, of clear, stiff muslin, just pinned on the top of her head, and with long, hanging lappets. She seemed much disposed to be kind and communicative, but there was an air of melancholy about her, and she looked thin and out of condition, as did all the women, while the men were singularly ruddy-complexioned, with something of a jolly-friar look about them.

"On their way out of the village, the father, to his great surprise, met a Shaker brother, whom he had known formerly as a farmer in West Pennsylvania. His name was Zephaniah Kumbal. He was strolling along with an easy, comfortable air, in his loose gray pantaloons, long-lapped black waist-coat, and short loose over-coat, or dressing-gown, of bright pure-colored stuff, made with very wide sleeves. This man, some three or four years before, finding himself unsuccessful as a farmer, took his wife and children, and joined the Shakers at Union Village. Here, as I said before, as in an English union workhouse, father, mother, and children, all separated at the entrance, and according to the rules, are henceforth no more than any of the rest to each other. This did very well for Zephaniah, who now got rid of the burden of wife and children. He assumed the Shaker dress, and grew fat and comfortable; but the wife, whose heart was full of affection, could not bear it. And not being able to take out her children, she located herself in a cottage, as near to them as possible, where she could see them sometimes, and do them good in her own way. But it was a melancholy life for her, and only a few months ago she died.

"The Shakers, however, as a body, were very rich. They were industrious and frugal. Their neat wagons, covered with white linen, were often seen in the city, bringing goods and manufactured articles to be disposed of. Their reputation for honesty was so great, that whatever was made or sold by a Shaker would fetch a higher price. Shaker seeds, Shaker herbs, Shaker carpets etc. were all thought better than ordinary articles of the same kind.

"Spite of all its worldly prosperity, however, our friends never thought of Union Village, but with somewhat of a melancholy feeling; for everything seemed to flourish there, excepting the women and children..."

Richard McNemar

The life of Richard McNemar, founder of Union Village, is told in the book Richard the Shaker, by Hazel Spencer Phillips. McNemar also held great interest in the other western Shaker communities, frequently visiting and preaching to these.

On January 20, 1831, while enroute up the Ohio River following a trip to the Kentucky settlements, McNemar debarked from the Str. VOLANT at North Bend and walked with his trunk on his back to Whitewater.

Following is an article with the title: The Shakers of Ohio: An Early Nineteenth-Century Account. It is taken from The Cincinnati Historical Society Bulletin, Vol. 29, #2. Pgs 126-137.

At the beginning of the nineteenth century a religious frenzy called the Kentucky Revival swept through the West. A schism in the Presbyterian Church in 1803 contributed to this revival and resulted in the creation of new sect called the "New Lights" or "Schismatics." This group, which sought to escape the authority of the Presbyterian Church and to develop a new spirit of communion, included Richard McNemar and Malcolm Worley, who settled at Turtle Creek in Warren County, Ohio. McNemar was minister of the schismatic Turtle Creek Presbyterian Church and Worley a wealthy landowner in the community.

In March 1805, three missionaries from the Shaker headquarters in New Lebanon, New York arrived at Turtle Creek. They had heard of McNemar and hoped to convert him to their own faith. Their first convert was Malcolm Worley, who gave his land to the Shakers, and one month later Richard McNemar and his family became members of the new faith. During 1805 several other families in the region joined the Shaker congregation at Turtle Creek.

In the spring of 1806, with the formal organization of the faithful at Turtle Creek into a Shaker family with chosen elders, work began on the first Shaker house in the West. Land was gradually added to the village as new land-owning members joined the faith. A frame meeting-house was built in 1809, and in 1812, with the adoption of a new covenant by the congregation, the name of the community was officially changed to Union Village.

Union Village became the center of western Shakerism, and from it missionaries, chief among them the powerful Richard McNemar, spread throughout Ohio bringing hundreds of converts to the Shaker faith. New churches were established in Watervliet, Whitewater, and North Union, Ohio. More Shaker settlements were organized in Kentucky and Indiana. Persecution helped to unite the faithful, and the movement grew despite religious prejudice and mob violence.

The original Shaker movement began in the mid-eighteenth century in England. Led by Ann Lees (she later shortened her last name to Lee), the small group of believers was driven from England to America in 1774. Soon they settled in northern New York, at Niskeyuna, where they slowly added converts from dissatisfied members of the Congregational Church, which had undergone a schism just as the Presbyterian Church was to do two decades later. From this base in New York, the Shakers spread their faith throughout New England and in 1805 sent to the West those missionaries who settled at Turtle Creek.

The Shakers had no clearly defined doctrine, but followed the beliefs of Mother Ann Lee. She was a woman of magnetic appeal who condemned all forms of worldliness and insisted on celibacy as a condition of becoming a Shaker. Following Mother Ann's principles of industry and economy, the Shakers worked hard in their communities, and the evening services became a form of release from their labor. It was from these services that the name Shaker came to be applied to Ann Lee's followers. They engaged in spontaneous dancing and singing, often jerking uncontrollably or rolling on the floor in their emotional fervor.

The Shaker community continued at Union Village until 1912. By this time it had become increasingly difficult to convert new members, and the remaining members lacked the religious fervor of the first converts. Other Shaker settlements throughout Ohio and Kentucky were also dissolved within a century of their founding.

The following letter by James McBride, however, describes Union Village, or Turtle Creek, when it was still a young and growing Society of Believers. In 1811 the village, its church and its worship service, its members and their mode of dress, all were representative of the Shaker communities which spread westward through the United States in the nineteenth century seeking a perfect communal life of heaven on earth.

James McBride emigrated to Hamilton, Ohio, about sixteen miles from Union Village, in 1806 at the age of eighteen. Though he was self-educated, he had intellect and curiosity which led him to study the pioneer land in which he had settled. He studied both the archaeology and history of the Miami Valley and wrote several books on the area including a History of Hamilton and a two-volume Pioneer Biography of Butler County. He also wrote a History of Oxford and Miami University describing the school which he supported and served for almost fifty years, including four years as its president, from its founding in 1809 until his death in 1859.

McBride's wise investments and mercantile ventures, particularly in the War of 1812, brought him wealth and leisure which enabled him to devote himself to his studies. He had a large and well-selected library comprising several thousand books, many relating to Southwestern Ohio, as well as his own manuscripts containing notes and descriptions of the region. The eventual dispersal and destruction of the books and newspapers in his library was described by historian Henry Howe as "an irreparable loss." The Cincinnati Historical Society is fortunate to have the bulk of the manuscripts of this remarkable man who was a charter member of the Society in 1831.

McBride's literary gift is evident in the letter which follows. It is written to his aunt, his mother's sister, who lived in Greencastle, Pennsylvania, where McBride was born. It is printed as it was found in the Society's collection of McBride papers, and no attempt has been made to correct obvious misspellings or errors of punctuation.

To Miss Mary McRoberts

Dear Aunt,

I am astonished and vexed when I look at your last letter, which I have just now hunted up and has it lying before me, and see that I have received it near three months ago, and it remains yet unanswered. So much for negligence and laziness—with both of which you have long since branded me, in your own imagination—Do so. Yes! Call me both negligent and lazy—call me anything you please:—But for Heaven's sake do not call me ungrateful to yourself or think me capable of forgetting those friends of my early life, who ought ever to be fresh in my remembrance. I'll put off the matter no longer, but now sit down to wipe away that foul stain, which I doubt not, you have long since been endeavouring to fix on my character, and direct the letter to the old spot of my nativity as I presume you are still there, as you wrote me you would inform me if a movement should take place, which information I have not received.

Amongst all the many advantages and conveniencies which this country possesses over every other country in the world which I have visited; In a former letter to you when on the subject of this country, I believe I omitted to inform you of the advantages which it enjoys with respect to religion, as it comprehends such a great variety, that a person may find a society of people ready to join in worshipping their make, in almost any manner your fancy could imagine, either in preaching, praying, shouting, singing, screaming, dancing, jumping — in short — in any noise or gesture of which the human body is capable. But I must confess that I have rather neglected attending to those various modes of worship, although there has been numerous meetings at no great distance from this place of New-lights, Methodists, Babptists, Quakers, with many others whose names I do not recollect, and many more that I do not know whether they have any name at all or not. But I have never, yet, went to any of them, until last Sunday when I went to satisfy a curiosity, which I had long entertained, of seeing a certain society of people known by the name of Shakers, who have united themselves together and formed a village on the waters of Turtle Creek in Warren County about sixteen miles from this place. These people do not live promiscuously through the country as other sectarians generally do; but all who belong to them live in a village or compact settlement by themselves, and all those who become converts to their opinions immediately sell out their possessions at all hazards, place the proceeds in common stock, and settle among or adjoining the other members of the society. What the peculiar principles or tenets of their belief are I am not altogether able to inform you, although I have heard enough about them from the neighbouring clergy to fill a quire of paper on the subject: But as many of their statements seemed so very extravagant, and believing that clergy men, as well as other men, sometimes exaggerate and misrepresent the errors in religion which appears in them — more particularly the errors which appear contrary to the errors which they themselves have adopted, I shall notice none of their cavelling on this subject, and only communicate what I, within my own knowledge know to be correct.

The Shakers consider themselves to have arrived at a degree of holiness far above the people of the world, who live around them, and with whom they scarce ever associate or have any intercourse whatever. They profes to have triumphed over the flesh and the evil propensities thereof, so far as to know nothing of the endearing affections of Father, or Mother — husband or wife — child or brother, or any of the tender ties of consanguinity which nature appears to have established and which commonly bind mankind together. They neither marry nor are given in marriage; but live (as they say) pure and undefiled, as the angels in Heaven, and hold all connection of that nature, or any respect paid to a temporal friend, as an abomination in the sight of the Lord. The moment that any person joins them, if he be the son of any person living in the neighbourhood, he leaves Father mother and friends; goes to the Shakers, lives with them, and scarce ever sees his relatives again. If he be a husband and his wife refuses to join with them also. He abandons her, leaves her to the charity and tender mercies of the world, goes to the society of the Shakers at their village, and not only refuses to see her more, but even pretends to hate her for the sake of religion. If the wife, also agrees to join them, when they go to the society they are seperated, the woman is placed in one family and the husband in another. Their children, if they have any, are placed under the direction of strangers, and henceforth the parties take no more notice of each other, than if they had never met. The men and women are not permitted to live promiscuously together (at least not in the same apartment) although they may belong to the same family. Their families generally consists of twenty or thirty persons, sometimes more; but the relation of husband and wife, parent and child are not recognized, and are not permitted to be members of the same family.

I have known several instances of women leaving their husbands and children and going to the Shakers, and of husbands leaving their wives, wretched widdows to shift for themselves in the wide world, and attaching themselves to the Shakers, one woman whom I knew, survived the fatal separation but a few months. I believe principally from the cause of the unnatural and unheard of conduct of her husband—Wretched unnatural man. I last Sunday saw him in their church, engaged in their religious dances, as unconcernedly as any of the other members around him. I looked upon him as the worst of murderers. The blood ran cold from the extremities of my body, and threw my whole system into an involuntary tremor

Great excitement has been produced in the public mind by the conduct of the Shakers, so much so that the Legislature of the state at their last session passed a law for the relief of unfortunate women who might be abandoned by their husbands who joined the Shakers. And in the fall of last year a large mob of people assembled and marched to the Shaker village, they numbered about two thousand men generally armed with rifles or muskets, and threatened to extirpate the Shakers from the face of the earth, which they undoubtedly would have effected had not some of the most respectable characters of the country interposed their influence to prevent mischief. But I suppose you are impatient to have a description of what I saw and heard when I visited them respecting their far famed ceremonies of worship; but expect not to receive any thing more than an imperfect outline, that being all within my power. For in this, as well as in many other of their ceremonies in life, there are so much that is unintelligible to spectators (and I should almost imagine to themselves) that it is impossible to form, and much less to give any adequate idea of them. However, I will try.

I, in company with another gentleman, who had seen them before, left here on Saturday evening and rode to within two or three miles of their village where we lodged during the night, in order that we might get early to their Church on Sunday morning before their ceremonies of worship should commence which we accomplished. When we came within their settlement, my attention was attracted by the regularity and neatness of their farms and gardens, which appeared to be cultivated with great care and considerable taste. When we arrived at their church I was surprized at its the appearance and neatness of the building which was a frame (the dimensions I do not know, but it was very large) with two doors of entrance on the west side. Inside it was handsomely plastered and cealed overhead, but destitute of seats except four or five rows of wooden benches, on the west side of the house, between the two doors. The building is situated in the centre of a lot of ground inclosed with a neat paling fence, covered with a beautiful sward of green grass. The entrance is by two gates on the west opposite the doors in the church, with fine gravel walks leading from them.

But if my attention was attracted by the building, it was more struck with the appearance of the people themselves, who were now assembling to the church for Divine worship, with more uniformity in their dress, and more solemnity in their countanences and manner than I had ever seen in so large an assemblage of people before. The men were all dressed in gray homespun cloth, their coats somewhat in the quaker fashion, or of that cut and fashion which was probably the mode some fifty or an hundred years ago. The females were still more uniform in their dress. In the first place, from the little girl of six or seven years of age, to her old grand mother of seventy, they all wore long eared caps, clean and white as snow, and which sat close to their heads all round without a single ribbon or bow knot about them, except two short pieces of white tape at their ears to tie them under their chin. They all wore petticoats fastened round their waists, and a garment made something in the manner of a dutch womans short gown but so long as to come within a finger length of their knees. These were all white muslin. Around their necks each wore a plain, clean white three-cornered handkerchief, but no beads, no lace, no ribbons or superfluety whatever. Their shoes were somewhat in the form of a Jefferson shoe rather heavy and clumsy, the completed their dress, except a plain little bonnet of black or brown muslin. They were all exactly in the same dress, every mothers daughter of them, not a single exception was to be seen in the whole society. In coming to the church, they all walked in single file like a flock of ducks coming from the creek in the evening. It was then that I discovered the use of the two gates, and the two doors of the church. The women I observed all came from one range of buildings and entered at the gate and door to the South. The men all entered at the North gate and door. One man of the world, who I suppose was unacquainted with there customs was going to enter the church by the South door at which the females entered, but no sooner had he put his foot on the threshold than some of the pious Shakers, who dreaded such a profanation, ran to him, led him back and introduced him at the other door. On entering the church the men took off their hats and hung them on wooden pegs on the north end of the room. The women likewise took off their bonnets and disposed of them in like manner at the other end of the room. They then took their seats flat on the floor, not cross-legged as the Turks do, nor with their feet extended at full length before them, to incommode their neighbours; but sitting flat with their feet at a convenient distance before them, and their petticoats drawn under their knees. Thus being all assembled and seated, arranged in rows, the men on one side and the women on the other, facing each other, with a space or passage of about six feet between the toes of the front rank of the men and the toes of the front rank of the women. In the mean time I had seated myself on the benches on the west side of the house before mentioned, and which were purposely set apart for the accomodation of strangers and spectators.

After sitting for some time silent, they all rose at once, as by general consent, and commenced singing a tune, each one joined and sung so very loud that it made my very eares tingle. In short I think if noise would crack the cealing of the house, this would have long since been fractured. Although it is the strongest frame building I have ever seen, perhaps the strongest of the kind ever erected. In their singing I could not discover that they sung any particular hymn or song, as I could not distinguish any words; but merely a humming sound to make the tune. In this exercise they continued about an hour, with only short intervals to change the tune after which they resumed their seats on the floor as before. An elderly gentleman then stepped from amongst them, advanced to the space between the members and the spectators who sat on the benches, and delivered a discourse about as long as a common sermon. I paid particular attention to what he said, and had I time, I believe could give you his discourse in nearly the words in which he delivered it, in which he gave us some of the outlines of their doctrine. Who he was I know not: but he was certainly an ingenuous man. He clothed his discourse in handsome language, and prepared the minds of the audience in his preliminary observations by drawing them on step by step, in a manner well calculated to prepare the mind of the superficial thinker to adopt his conclusions, which were deduced from premises which none could deny.

At the conclusion of the discourse the speaker observed to the Shaker members that it was time to prepare for Divine Worship. The men immediately went to their end of the building took off their coats, put them away and returned, in the mean time about half a dozen men singers, and an equal number of women singers arranged themselves along the side of the house, opposite their respective sexes, and commenced singing a lively air of a tune, on which the whole assembly joined in a dance. but without running any regular figures, or the men and women intermingling together. each dancing on the space which they occupied, keeping exact time to the musick, and at each turn of the tune turning half round and facing their next rank. At this they continued ten or fifteen minutes at a time, when a pause took place, long enough for the singers to change the tune, when at it they went again. At certain times during their dance some of them, would, jump up clap their hands, whirl round on their toes or heels like a top, cutting all kind of extraordinary capers, and shouting sometimes the whole assembly so loud that I thought beyond all doubt they would bring the house down about our ears.

The tunes which they sung were brisk lively airs such as I have often heard played on the violin at a country dance. They kept dancing in this manner for about two hours. The day was very warm, and before they concluded, their cloathes were as wet with sweat as if they had been engaged in a harvest field.

One little girl of the age of ten or twelve years was among the dancers. I suppose a daughter of some of the old solemn dancers. My attention was particularly attracted by her, as she was very neat and sprightly with a cheerful countenance. She looked so pleasant and kept capering about amongst them during the whole time. I conjectured that some of the old pious dances had brought her there to pay her devotions to her maker, but that on setting off in the dance with the music she had fancied herself in a ball room. However, If she did not serve her maker with her lips (I shall say nothing about the heart) she was dexterous in serving him with her feet. And I doubt not but her dancing would be registered in the records of dancing (if such a book is kept by the recording Angel in Heaven) as equally good with that performed in a more solemn manner, and I think equally as acceptable to the Deity.

Such is the diversified opinions of man, that out of one Protestant Church have sprung up hundreds of different cavelling sects, who are daily by some new fangled doctrine leading aside the weak brethern from their reasonable service.

Although Christ commanded that little children should be brought unto him, here comes one in a jealous fit and forbids them to approach the church.

Another discards all forms of worship as vain and superstitious, and depends alone on the workings of the spirit to perform all the duties of Christianity.

Another kicks apostles, saints, bishops and priests out of the communion. Sends the whole fellowship a packing, with Judas, to the devil, and then sets up themselves in the room of the minister of Christ, and expects to receive a much greater degree of homage and respect.

But hold Gentlemen, you will all be damned! You are all going wrong cries another. Here, says he, holding up a wet handkerchief, here are the true signs of penitence and faith. Observe my eyes flowing with rivers of tears. This doctrine must be true, for it makes people cry.

Ask any one of these different sects and they will tell you, that all the world but themselves will be damned. And that God during the several thousand years which are past, did never vouchsafe the light of the Gospel to the sons of darkness until they came.

God speed the whole of them, and let them all get to Heaven by the nearest and best way they can.

Excuse this long and tiresome letter,

Dear Aunt,

Adieu

James McBride

The Shakers' sense of order was revealed in their mode of dress, which was always uniform in style, color and fabric. This uniformity, a shaker circular declared, "contributed to peace and union in spirit, . . ." prevented jealousy among the Sisters and helped the members of the faith to recognize one another "when meeting . . . either at home or abroad."

THE WILLIS MILL

THE E.C. WILLIS MILL NEAR SPRINGBORO, OHIO. *

by Wm. P. Hunt

When Elijah Chance Willis married Racehl Wilson, daughter of Jesse and Elizabeth (Mason) Wilson of Springboro, and built a mill on the land of his father-in-law, given as a wedding present, the event represented more than the cementing of two of Warren county's wealthier families; it also represented a key link between the nation's farmers and the growing industrial capacity of 19th. century America.

One cannot understate the importance of the miller and his influence upon the 19th. century scene: Elijah cut timber, made salt, ground flour and milled meal, the end result being that in his area it was he who set local prices, counseled the community, and bought and sold basic commodities. He was a typical early American businessman, entitled to be referred to as "Master Willis" and sought out for advice concerning business and banking matters, frequently receiving pay for services rendered. Moreover, it was Elijah who established the Willis/Wilson family fortunes by sawing and installing the courduroy and macadamized roads built throughout southwestern Ohio in the 1830's and 1840's.

Elijah's mill was located on an "L"-shaped piece of property of some 160 acres with no access road. The road -- the "old mill road" romanticized in poems and popular songs of later date, and typical of the thousands of place-names named after an earlier water-powered mill -- came later.

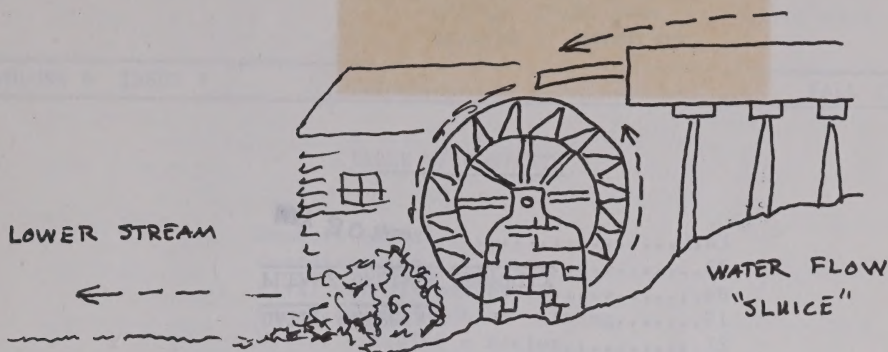

The Willis mill was of the "Overshot Wheel" type, making it one of the most effective of water-wheel designs with approximately 75% efficiency. Located on a slow-moving stream, a dam was constructed with a raised wooden sluiceway which carried the water to the mill, the stream then spilling over the top of the water-wheel. From the beginning, the mill's specialty was the manufacturing of flour, with "seconds" and "bran" as by-products.

American mills, as their European counterparts, were dangerous places, without the safeguards for workers which have come to be expected in modern industry -- a careless, unthinking miller lived a short life. Being caught in the wheels and ground up in the gears originated the saying: "killed at his mill"; the epitaph of all millers dying in such a manner. Such was the fate of Elijah. It was while sawing logs that he met his death by being caught in the wheel race in January, 1851.

Following Elijah's death, his son, John Davis Willis, inherited 40 acres of land across from where the mill stood, while his daughter, Mary Willis, received the remaining land, including the mill.

A RECONSTRUCTION OF THE WILLIS MILL c. 1835.

THE PRINCIPLE AT WORK:

The water wheel held the main "spur-wheel drive". This in turn, rotated the main shaft to which the upper turning stone was attached. Cleaned corn was then fed into a "hopper", which fed it into the pair of stones -- a valve control allowed the miller to control the intake. Upon leaving the Millstones, the flour was carried by conveyor belt -- originally constructed of leather with metal cups; later replaced by a device known as a "worm conveyor", i.e., a corkscrew-metal shaft which was driven by the spur-wheel drive -- to the "Evans elevator", which then lifted the flour high into the upper parts of the mill to where the "dressing drum", or cylinder, made of either silk or screen -- in this case, from silk produced by the early attempts at introducing silk-culture to Ohio in the 1840's. This drum tilted at an angle over the "grading hoppers", which sorted the flour into "Grade 1." (flour), "Grade 2." (seconds), and "Grade 3." (bran).

As previously mentioned, millstones came in pairs: the "bed" or "netherstone", which remained stationary on the bottom, and the "Runner", or revolving stone, which was held in place by the "balance rynd" or iron bar. The pair were then sealed in a case (or "hoop") with an opening for the flour to leave through. Millstone designs, commonly called "dresses" were divided into "land", or un-grooved surfaces, and "furrows", grooves to carry the flour. These "dress" patterns can still be seen today in many a kitchen in the popular "Hex" signs of the Pennsylvania Dutch Amish people; undoubtedly due to the fact that all millstones in use when a fatal accident occurred were henceforth and forever more considered unlucky and removed from the mill, more often than not being used to mark the last resting place of the unfortunate employer/ee. (NOTE: This was not the case with Elijah; his burial stone at the Friends Burying Grounds at Springboro is modest, though replaced in 1891.)

The preceeding information was submitted to Heir-Lines by William Paul Hunt., along with the article on the Ohio Silk INdustry which appeared in Heir Lines, Volume 4, Issue 1 on page 30.

GENEALOGY PROBLEM-SOLVING

by Adele Blanton

There is more to the hobby of genealogy than the gathering of biographical information. The most important part is the accurate interpretation of all that data. Beginners are usually taught about sources, but perhaps greater emphasis should be placed on the understanding and use of the facts that are collected.

First and foremost, you, the researcher, must be careful in copying the information you find, rechecking your notes and your references to the sources before leaving the documents or books. The accurate recording of data can eliminate some of the problems that will only become evident to you later when the "story" does not make sense.

Your ability to read old handwriting is important. The writing in records is often difficult to figure out, and you may have to study other records on the same page (written by the same person) in order to learn that a certain swirled capital letter is not an "S" but an "L", or what looks to you like a "3" is really a "2", or that what you think is an "f" is really an old-fashioned "s".

You also should be able to interpret the wording as it was written, in its own time and conditions. In order to understand it, you may need to use a dictionary or a genealogy glossary. In addition, a general knowledge of the history of the geographical area is important, particularly within the time-period of your own family's residency. --Most helpful, along with the histories, are the old area maps that may show place names and boundary lines different from today. If you are lacking this knowledge, you may have written some errors into your genealogy, for example:

You may have learned that your family was living in Hamilton County in 1796, and then you find that they were in Warren County in 1804. --On the surface, it looks as if the family moved from one county to the other, sometime between those two dates, but when you learn that Warren County was established in 1803 from Hamilton County, you may want to consider the possibility that your family lived on the same farm all that time and had not moved at all.

Of course, the Court House in each county should have some information on your people during the period when they were properly the residents of that county.

The interpretation of gravestone inscriptions can be another stumbling-block for the genealogist. You must copy the wording exactly as written, especially where it pertains to the person's age. From the years, months, and days, you can figure the approximate date of birth, but if the message says, "in the 63rd year of his age", you must remember that the person was not yet 63 years old. He was only in the process of completing that year, and at the end of it, he would have celebrated his 63rd birthday; so he was actually 62 years at the time of his death.

A family story that has been passed along from one generation to another is not always true, and you will need to make an investigation into the events and circumstances in order to have proof of what really happened. When you learn the details about the people involved in that story, you will be able to put the facts together.

It is a great challenge in genealogy to find proof of the information you are collecting. As you research each generation, especially following your direct line of ancestors, you must try to have accompanying documents to show who the parents were. If you begin working on an earlier generation without the positive identification, you may waste a lot of time and efforts doing research on the wrong people, with a further result that the family history you are compiling will be in error.

In instances where you are doubtful about any information, put a question-mark beside it in your notes, and don't forget to record where you found that data; you will want to return to it later, when you have discovered additional references to compare with it. A wise genealogist understands that the more data he gathers, the more accurate he can make his own records on a particular family or individual. By comparing the findings on an item, you may be able to determine which is the correct information. --Always remember that there are many errors in the old records, particularly in the census records and in most published materials.

One important procedure to follow is to put your gathered notes into chronological order, so that you can begin to understand the family history. If it doesn't make sense at some point (--births too close together, wrong place of residence, etc.), this is an indication that you need to do more research. Try not to jump to conclusions or to depend on a guess, but continue looking for facts.

Genealogy problems or stumbling-blocks may be overcome if you are careful in your procedures and if you use all the clues. A complicated problem may have to be conquered, step by step, by approaching each phase of it separately. However, don't give up. --Also, try to be creative in your thinking. Perhaps the surname was misspelled in the old records and you need to think about other spellings, according to the way it sounds. Perhaps you need to search in records a few years earlier or a few years later than you had thought. Perhaps the adjoining county will have documents on your family. --As a last resort, you may want to discuss the research difficulty with other genealogists and consider their suggestions. Usually there is a way to unravel the mystery. You may set it aside for awhile, but some day, in one way or another, you will probably be successful in solving it!

COURT HOUSE RECORD INACCURATE

A Warren County Court House record on the marriage of Urias Keelor and Phebe (Meeker) Dunbar is dated, 27 Nov. 1839. In this case, the Court House record is incorrect because Phebe's mother's Will, written on 25 Jan. 1836 and probated on 3 Oct. 1837 (Hamilton County: Elizabeth Meeker) refers to her daughter, "Phebe Keelor". In addition, although Phebe had been previously married, two of her daughters, Elizabeth Ann (b. 28 Aug. 1831) and Lucinda (b. 31 Dec. 1836) are both referred to in family records as having the maiden name of Keelor/Keeler.

In consideration of the above evidence, it is thought that the correct marriage date of Urias and Phebe was 27 Nov. 1829, and that the error was made when a court clerk probably copied the information from slips of paper into the large record book. He simply mis-read the handwriting when putting those slips in chronological order, before recording them.

FRANKLIN BAPTIST CHURCH

The following article was submitted by Helen Hutt of Lebanon, OH. It was copied from the October 25, 1917 issue of The Franklin Chronicle, published at Franklin, Warren County, Ohio. The heading of the article was Installation of Pipe Organ Recalls Long Struggle of Local Baptists; History of Early Days of a Congregation That Knew Sacrifice and Self Denial.

The history of any evangelical church is a vital part of the best and highest life of its community. This is especially true when work by such a religious body has extended over several generations. So it is that when we examine the old records of the Franklin Baptist church we read not musty pages only, but see a vision of men and women battling heavenward, of work-a-day lives glorified by an inner light.

The founders of Franklin, when laying out the town, set aside ground for school, church and town purposes.

On portions of this plot were built at various times, the present Central School building, a Town Hall and a Church. Christians of all denominations united in the erection of this house of worship on what was familiarly known as "The old Baptist Church Corner."

For some years this building was used as a union meeting house, but the same causes which in one day prevent actual denominational union, worked even more strongly in a new community, and led to inevitable differences of opinion.

The Christian church was first organized, then the Methodist and Presbyterian. The union services were discontinued, the property neglected, and made a store room for all manner of merchandise, including it is said, an occasional barrel of old rye, and pork on the hoof.

There were numerous Baptists in and around Franklin, most of them with membership in the Middletown church. It is interesting to know that several of these had been excluded from the "Old School Baptist" denomination for the awful heresy of believing in Missions and Sunday Schools.

In the winter of 1842, Elder Wm. T. Boynton, then pastor at Middletown, conducted a series of revival services in Franklin. Some of these meetings were held in a brick house on Third street, which stood on the grounds now occupied by the residence of our postmaster McCarthy. This small building was used as a public school.

As the meetings increased in attendance and interest, the Methodist brethren, with genuine Christian courtesy, allowed their audience room to be used.

After this, services were frequently held in the two story building on the northeast corner Second and Main streets. An outside stairway led to the second floor, and the large room there had been used as a private school.

On the 7th of June 1843, preliminary steps were taken to establish The First Regular Baptist Church, of Franklin, Ohio. We are told that this meeting was held in the evening at the home of Brother Absalom Death, on Fourth street, just below Seventh. At this meeting Elder Wm. T. Boynton was appointed to draft a covenant and articles of faith. June 29, 1843, through action of Council appointed from the Dayton, Lebanon, Muddy Creek, Lockland and Middletown Baptist churches, the Franklin Baptist church was made a regularly organized body of Christian believers.

The Council met in what is known as the old Maxwell warehouse, corner Second street and Springboro road. Here in an Upper room, reached by an outer stairway, rude benches and a primitive platform had been placed.

After the program was completed, and the new organization an accomplished fact, all present with gladness of heart, clasped hands and formed a circle extending around the room. Thus they stood and received the right hand of fellowship, praising God with hymns of rejoicing, and then going forth to their homes and their work with an inspiration to better lives--Such is the story of the beginning.

The majority of the charter members came from the Middletown church. We find among the families represented names for many years well known in our community life. Chamberlin, TenEyck, Frazee, Schenck, Meeker, Dubois, Barkalow, Coleman, Death, McAroy do these have a familiar sound? All are "over on the other shore" save one, Mrs. Rachel DuBois Johnson. Rev. Wm. T. Boynton was first pastor and Absalom Death church clerk.

In the fall of 1843 the property on the corner of Fourth and Main, having reverted to the original owners, the Schenck family, was deeded by them to the Baptists. After repairs were made, the little band of worshipers moved in and for more than fifty years occupied the old white brick. On the lot where the opera house now stands, carriage sheds and hitching racks were placed.

The present home of the Baptist congregation was completed in 1893, and was occupied, but not dedicated, on Dec. 20th of that year, as it was decided not the thing to dedicate publicly, a house of God upon which there was a debt.

The dedication was postponed for eight years, and was preceded by such a test as had never come in our previous church history. (Following is taken from a historical sketch written for the dedication.)

"The first year in the new house was marked by the financial crash that made a chaos of material affairs in Franklin, and for a long time lowered the spiritual barometer.

"From a human standpoint, we seemed destined to lose all our property, and to begin over again. Two years were gone before matters were in such shape as not to appear hopeless. Then faith and works began once more to go hand in hand, and the mountain of unexpected debt was attacked.

"The Lord opened up ways of help which we had not counted upon. A loan was arranged through the Baptist State Convention. The Miami Association has been a friend to us, and pocketbooks were freely opened for by our own people, by our good friends in this community and through Southeastern Ohio. The brethren (sic) of the disbanded church at Eaton, Ohio, were especially generous, just when the load seemed impossible to lift, our sister, Mrs. Ruth Schenck, came forward, without informing us at the time who was the donor(sic), and gave the amount enabling us to burn the mortgage."

And now a few facts as to the musical side of church worship in all these years. In 1849 Brothers Robert Martin and Harvey B. Meeker were appointed "singing clerks." No instrument other than the tuning fork was ever used, and even that was a mystery to most of the brethren and sisters. However, the hymns were always started by somebody and the music was in full swing when the second or third stanza was reached.

Reed organs were finally offered for sale and variously called an "invention of Satan" or "a valuable aid in Church worship." After much discussion, one was purchased, and soon won its way into the hearts of lovers of music. One worthy brother stood for years against the wicked innovation, and publicly rebuked the organist and choir every Lord's day. This was accomplished by the simple plan of coming in after the opening hymns, walking heavily and with squeaking boots to a front pew, and reversing this solemn ceremony so soon as the sermon was preached and previous to the closing song.

The pipe organ which is to be publicly installed Oct. 26, 1917, is the result of long planning, years of small giving, and a final organization under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Brooks.

A systematic plan of campaign was adopted, the money has been raised for the organ itself, and it can be dedicated free of debt.

In 1894 a fund of $600 had been collected for a pipe organ; it was cheerfully turned over to the creditors of the church. Many of those who sacrificed for the first fund are not here to realize the fruition of their hopes, but we feel sure they know about it and are with us in spirit.

Would this be their message to us? "In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He will direct thy paths." The building is nothing, the instrument nothing unless in dedicating them, the hearts and lives of the membership are given to God. Then indeed the temple becomes a beautiful place, a hallowed spot, the very gate of heaven.

Tomorrow evening the beautiful new organ will be introduced to the public at a recital to be given by Mrs. Clara Oglesby Lyman and Mrs. Marjorie Hankinson Squires. There will be no admission fee but a freewill offering will be taken. (The program for the recital was given, but is omitted here.)

CEMETERY UPDATE

In early issues of Heir-Lines we published two Warren County cemeteries in Deerfield Township as they had been copied by others in previous years. They were: MUDDY CREEK CEMETERY in Volume 1, Issue 1 and UNITY CEMETERY in Volume 1 Issue 2. Our Cemetery Committee, headed by Chester Dunn, has re-read both of these cemeteries and there are enough errors in the original that it seems worthwhile to re-publish them with the additions and corrections noted.

The following code is used to indicate how this list varies from the one first printed:

Pioneer Hunter and Chain Carrier

Philip Swartzel was the first white man, as far as is known, who put an axe into the forest trees on the west bank of the Miami River, south of Dayton and north of Middletown. He was a native of Centre County, Pa. When about twenty one years of age, he had a "few words" with his father, who objected to his attentions to a certain young lady in his neighborhood; and he straightway proposed to the young woman, who accepted, and they at once proceeded to the Squire's and were married. Collecting a new dollars together, he secured his tomahawk and hunting accoutrements, and shouldering his trusty rifle, himself and wife joined an emigrating party and came out of Ohio - then a "howling wilderness."

They landed at Columbia, and soon afterward went to "tows" at Cincinnati - with its few cabins and huts strung along the river - and engaged in work. At that time living was simple and workmen were in demand. This was in the year of 1794 or 1795. Not long afterwards, Mr. S. went with a party of emigrants, and joined them in a settlement a short distance below the present town of Franklin. He entered land, and lived there for a few years, when he sold out and entered land over the Miami, on what is known as "Dry Run," where he cleared a "patch", built a cabin, and moved on it. Philip Swartzel was known far and near as a "crack shot" with the rifle, and the best hunter in all the region. He had, besides, been engaged a good deal with surveying parties, and not only killed the game for their subsistence, but he was pretty well posted on surveying. It was on this account that he was solicited by Mr. Cooper and others of the party to assist in surveying the site of Dayton, and a portion of the country contiguous. He came to Dayton to join the party, and the route that he took, on foot, up the Miami bottom, there was no trail and there was not a stick of timber amiss. It was with a good deal of difficulty that he made his way through the thickets of brush and vines; and the most difficult place he had to encounter was after he had crossed the Miami, on the western bank, between the river and where Wilkinson Street now is, which was so thickly set with vines and prickly pears that he was quite an hour in making his way a few hundred yards.

He killed a deer on the ground where the Court House now stands, and carried the carcass to the camp of General Findley and party, on the banks of the river, near the head of Main Street. This was in the summer of either 1796 or 1799, his son George Swartzel thinks. There was a small settlement here, already, comprising a few cabins on the south bank of the river, at Main street; but the surveying party had a camp of their own, in the vicinity. Swartzel remained with the party until they had completed the surveys of the several tracts of land in this region. This was some time before the county was organized. We were informed of these matters, yesterday, by a son of the old pioneer hunter and chain-carrier, who was reminded of this bit of early history on seeing the relics being taken out of Main street. He remembers well when the pond existed, and geese and ducks were sailing on it.

The preceeding article was submitted by WCGS member Jacquelyn L. Bowser from Farmersville, Ohio.

OBITUARY FILES

Our Warren County Genealogical Society Resource Center is working on obituary files. Members are clipping, mounting on 3 x 5 cards, and filing obituaries found in the Western Star, The Star Free Press, The Franklin Chronicle, The Middletown Journal, and the Little Miami Express.

In addition WCGS was given Western Stars which had been microfilmed. Jessie Van Meter has clipped and copied the obituaries from 1919 to 1944; and from 1970 to 1981. They are in notebooks in the Resource Center. Each year is indexed.

The indexes for 1919 and 1920 are given in this Heir Lines so you may know of this project and judge its usefulness for yourself.

UP NORTH

Until I was ten years old, I lived in Ohio. I remember living in Blanchester, with Mon, Dad, and my brothers Paul and Ray. I started school there. How frightened I was to go down in the school basement to go to the toilet! It scared me when I had to pull the chain and all that water roared above, ready to drown me! But the "big monster of a furnace" crouching with its "arms" spread all over to each room, really made me sneak down the stairs, dart into a booth, get through as fast as possible, grab the chain, and run! At home we had "privys" in our back yard, with two big seats and one little one; a moon cut into the door, morning glories climbing all over it, with bees buzzing outside and a catalogue to look at; it was a friendly place. And in the house there were chamber-pots under the beds for night time and cold day use!

Dad was a contractor-builder. I remember when he came home and told Mom that in the new house he was building there was to be a whole room with a bath tub and toilet in it. She wondered how that could be, when no matter how clean you scrubbed a privy, they were always smelly! I think her words were "How in the world could you have that dirty thing in the house?" My grandmothers told me that "water closets" were called privys because that meant private.

Every week we went to Woodville to visit Grandma and Grandpa Long on their little farm. It was such a fun place to be. They let us do anything we pleased as long as we didn't get hurt. I got to go bare-footed in the dust out front on the dusty road! Something I never got to do in town. I can still feel the warm dust as I wiggled my toes in it. Grandpa only had one arm - his right one was off at the shoulder. Having come thru the war O.K., he lost his arm in a hunting accident when Mom was a baby. He was tall and thin. Grandma was short and cuddly. She was Irish, with curly red hair, and very quick in her movements - darting here and there like a bird.

We didn't get to visit our other Gramparents as often, since they lived further away, on a bigger farm. We went there every month, though. Sometimes we went by train, and had to be "met" at the depot.

Grandma Long died when I was still confined to bed after Margie's birth in 1925. Grandpa Long had died a few years earlier. There were Uncle Ben, Uncle Fred, Uncle Will, Uncle Oress, and Uncle Roy; Aunt Sally and Mom. One boy and Aunt Katy died before Mom was married. There was one set of twins in the family. Both Uncle Fred and Uncle Oress lived with us in Ohio at different times.

Mostly we drove places in our carriage. Dad got his first car later, after we moved to Middletown. Before we got a car, Mom called them "Devil Carriages" because our horse would rear up and try to run away when we met a car. But after we had one, she thought it would be a good idea if the horses would just get out of the way!

Anyway, it was fun visiting Grandma and Grandpa White, too. Everything was on a much larger scale. I still remember the first time Grandpa took me out to the big barn - all those horses and cows! He showed me where milk really came from and let me try to milk. He was big and tall too. My Grandmothers were almost alike in build. Grandma White was Scotch, and had snow-white hair. I never saw her any other way as her hair turned white when she was about thirty years old.

Grandma White died at an early age, with a tumor. And Aunt Lala lived at home until Grandpa died. He was in his nineties and still driving his tractor, even into town. I remember Uncle Jim, Uncle Harvey, and one uncle who died of a heart attack in the Cincinnati train depot on his way home from out west. Then there were the eldest sister Aunt Olive, Aunt Lala, "Dad", then my Aunt Edna. Grandma was called Grandma Scott White.

We moved to Middletown where Dad had built what would now be called a duplex, then it was called a two-family or double-house. We lived in one side and another family moved into the other side, and this was later to be rental property. My Aunt Lala, Dad's sister, had come to live with us just before we left Blanchester, as Mom was expecting another child. It was in this duplex that my brother Alvie was born.

All this time, Dad was trying to get our new home ready for us. It was in a beautiful spot in the suburbs. There were winding roads and lots of trees, with only a few nice homes here and there. We were all so happy to be where we could have our horses with us again, instead of boarding them out.

Dad had a photographer come take a pictures of us on one of our favorite ponies. Dad stood at the head and we were all lined up on the horses back: first me, then Paul, then Ray, then Alvie. Mom stood by him to steady him on the horse - he was so small. This was a very large picture in a frame and hung on the wall for many years.

It seemed no time at all til our paradise was spoiled! The city passed an ordinance making it unlawful for saloons to operate within the city limits; so they all moved just outside! We were surrounded. Seven of them within shouting distance.

Soon a foreign settlement sprang up just in back of our house. I don't remember any resentment toward these people. We knew they were from a different country because most of them couldn't speak English. But a smile is understood in any language, and we were friends. When a new baby arrived, we were so happy for them, and took little love gifts. The new Mamas in turn let us see "the baby" and gave us cookies. I remember when one infant died, it was laid out in the front room. We all cried together. Afterwards, I often took flowers to this sad young mother, and we sat in the sun on the steps and talked.

Of course, with the change, all property value went down. When Dad found out we visited the back doors of saloons, where the friendly saloon keepers and family gave us pretzels, and we were liable to be hit by a stray bullet or knocked down by a drunk; he moved us as fast as he could.

The foreign settlement people were a happy, friendly, loving people. We kids loved to visit them. They lived in "shacks" and baked their bread in great outside ovens. If those great round loaves got a bit burned, they had a rock beside the front of the oven, and when the women took the bread out they'd sorta "whop" the burnt crust off with a stick.

Another thing, the men loved to visit the saloons, and when drunk would as likely as not settle any trouble with guns. Shots were liable to fly around any night. One night when Aunt Alice had brought her children to visit us, a gun-fight broke out and shots were fired all around. Aunt Alice thought it was just awful to live in the "wild west", and early the next morning, she was all packed and left for home.

Dad was busy building us another home back inside the city limits. It was just great! Tile bath and kitchen, all the modern things. Our furnace was "friendly" - set in the middle of a light and cheerful basement. Here, we had a young married couple that "lived in" - Charlie and Goldie. She helped in the house and he did the yard work and cared for our carriage horses. It was while we lived here that Dad bought our first car, but he still kept his horses. If one of us got sick, Mom just "phoned the doctor" and he came and made us feel better. Everyday she'd phone the grocer and give him her order for the day which he would deliver. In fact, unless she wanted to, she needn't walk outside for anything.

Each spring and fall we had a seamstress who came to see what new clothes we all wanted made. After a few fittings, she'd bring them to us all finished. Also we had a laundress who came every week to do the washing and ironing. It was in this house that my sister Lou was born. She was a cuddly living doll! Dad bought over a hundred pounds of candy, and treated all the men who worked for him. Laughingly he called Lou "The Candy Kid!"

When she was three months old, and I was ten years old, in 1913, we moved to Alberta, Canada. Dad's two partners went with us. So did Charlie and Goldie. Charlie rode in the boxcar with Dad's horses, to care for them. A car-load of Mom's lovely possessions were also shipped. In fact, Dad shipped everything except by piano, our Shetland ponies, and the automobile. We used the car for the last time to go to our Grandparents and tell them "goodbye." In my mind's eye, I can still see them standing there waving while I knelt on the back-seat looking back at them as long as I could see them. We never got to see them again. Over sixty years later, I have clear and wonderful memories of them and my aunts and uncles, and oh, so many cousins. *

This ends the Ohio portion of my grandmother's story. While in Alberta, the Whites lost everything in two fires, and suffered many hardships, including two of the children being killed by lightning. I think the partners of Ray White, and Charlie and Goldie returned to Ohio when the situation got worse. The Whites, however, forged on. Ray White helped build new railroad tracks far up in Alberta, Canada. After the second fire, they headed back to the United States and ended up in Oregon.

Letter from John N. Wooley

The Western Star, Thursday, March 5, 1885

Letter from Indiana, From an Old Citizen

Denver, Miami Co., Indiana

copied by Betty K. Beachy
Baltimore, Maryland

Although a stranger to you personally, yet we are no stranger to the good old STAR. It comes to our Indiana home regularly every week, and you may rest assured it is a welcome visitor, coming as it does from the home of our boyhood and early manhood days.

We were married in the year 1844, to Miss Alice E. Warwick, who lived with her widowed mother, with Mr. Joseph Evans, near Utica. In 1847 we left Utica for this country, a move we have never regretted. We like this Eel River country first rate, yet we never expect to get over our love for old Warren county, Ohio.

In looking over the columns of the STAR, our eyes often see old familiar names, such as Stokes, Lewis, Beachey, Hathaway, Wells, Corlis, Fraser, Graham, Earnhart, Crane, Tresslar, Cling, Mull and many others whose names we cannot recall. When we see these names it sets us thinking about old times.

Bill Lewis, Tom Beachey, John Graham, John Lewis, and the writer, with others we cannot think of, all went to school, in the old Buttermilk school house, as it was called. We finally got a new brick house nearer the village, where we all graduated. We are told that the little old brick is there yet; how we would like to see it!

Many a good meal have we eaten with Benjamin Stokes and his amiable wife, for we boarded with them for a year or two when they kept store at Utica. We used to think Maria (as we all called her) could not be beaten in getting up a good meal.

Mr. Henry Merritt, a former citizen of your county, has been spending a few weeks in his old home in Ohio. He returned yesterday much pleased to get back to his new home here.

We have had the deepest snow and coldest winter ever known here before. Snow two feet deep on the level, the mercury below zero nearly all the time, and on two occasions falling as low as 40 below.

My object in writing to the STAR is to let the people of Warren county know of the death of John Gustin, who moved to this place about a year ago. Mr. Gustin was born October 2, 1807, in Warren county, O. on the farm half a mile east of Red Lion, on which he spent all of his long life, except one year, which he spent here in this county. He died on Tuesday morning, February 24, 1885, and was laid away to rest in West Lawn Cemetery adjoining out town.

In 1846 he married Miss Hannah Lewis, of Warren county, Ohio, daughter of Alexander Lewis, by whom he had two sons, Eri and Lewis, who are here in Denver in the undertaking and furniture business. It is well know that Mr. Gustin, for the last three or four years of his life, was losing his mind, and finally did not know his own family at times. Otherwise his health was pretty good up to some two weeks before his death. He passed off very easily and quietly without a struggle.

Thus another pioneer of Warren county has gone. He was in his seventy-eighth year. One by one they go, and it will not be long till they are all gone.

March 1, 1885, and a big snow stom is upon us today.

By publishing this letter in the STAR you will greatly oblige the bereaved family, as well as the writer.

MEETINGS ARE SET FOR BALANCE OF 1986

Three meetings remain on our schedule for this year. The next will be October 15 at Otterbein Home at 7:30, the same place and starting time for those to be held November 19 and December 10. The latter will be a week earlier and will include our usual Christmas observance.

Jordan Dodd of the Norwood branch of the Mormon Library will have the October 15 program. Our own Adele Blanton active in three counties, will have the program in November on "Our Ancestors." Member participation is planned. December will be mostly social, only necessary business will be taken up. Plan now to attend these meetings.

PUSHING EFFORT TO OBTAIN ALL of COURTROOM

Representatives of the Society are continuing efforts to secure use of all of the former Warren County Court room, the Society now enjoys use of only the front (east) portion presently. This is being used only for storage now.

Tom Foley has drawn us an excellent layout as proposed for use of the entire room, now being shared on a part-time basis with another tenant. It is hoped a compromise can be worked out yet this month (October).

JOB DESCRIPTIONS ARE NEEDED SOON

All officers and committee chairmen are requested to submit a job description for their office. This past due and early submission is requested. Those needing assistance should check with the president. A preliminary copy may be submitted first if desired. Harriett Foley was the first to submit a final draft. These are very necessary items.

VOLUME 4 CEMETERY BOOK GOING GOOD

The fourth Cemetery Book, covering the Springboro Cemetery burials, is selling well. It is priced at $10 plus 55¢ tax. Volume 1, Morrow, is available for $5; Volume 2, Harlan Twp., $4.97; Volume 3, Union Twp., $5.49; all have tax extra. We have Maineville History $2.50, plus tax; also early marriage records.

SUGGESTIONS FROM OTHER PUBLICATIONS

Helpful suggestions can be gleaned from other genealogical publications. The St. Louis Society "News 'N' Notes" is a prime example with these below.

The staff of the New Jersey Bureau of Archives will check their "Family Name Index File" for an SASE. Address: New Jersey State Library, 185 W. State St. Trenton, N. J. 08608.

The Mid-Continent Library, Highway 6 & Spring, Independence, Mo. 64050, has 1900 Census and Soundex Indexes for all states per Iowa Gen. Soc., August '86.

Those who have finished their genealogical work may have it placed in the Library of Congress, Exchange and Gifts Division, 10 First Street, S.E., Washington, D.C. 20540. An acknowledgement of your gift will be sent to you.

The Missouri Bureau of Vital Records is now at 1730 Elm St., Jefferson City, Mo. 65101. Birth and death data since 1910 are available there.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS, ETC. ETC. --

Our resigned V. P., Helen Hutt and hubby, Ralph, have moved to Springboro we are informed... How about a membership in 1987 for a friend at Christmas time?... Tom Foley is acting President of Franklin Historical Society due to the Pres. suffering a heart attack.

We have good reports of our two Field Trips this summer to libraries in Norwood and Hillsboro... Leora Spindler had a nice trip to England recently... Our library slowly increases, volume by volume... Thelma Hudson continues to be our most frequent traveler, all in USA.

Howard and Eunice Barnett, charter members, have moved to Lebanon from over by Maineville... Harriett Foley recently spoke on genealogy to an elementary school class at Springboro... Adele Blanton is a scheduled speaker at the Harvest of History Seminar at Dayton, set for November 8-9... The next Cemetery Book will contain Hamilton Township burial grounds... Proposed By-Laws reviewed at September 17 meeting returned to the committee for finalization... We need a few more volunteers - can you help?

WE HAVE COMPLETED SIX YEARS SERVICE

With the advent of 1987, our Society enters upon its seventh year, having completed our sixth in good fashion. This News-Letter starts Volume seven although its actual anniversary comes in March.

Having been elected to another term as President we hope to increase our service to genealogists and our members. Your support will be appreciated. More volunteers are needed to be helping us at the Resource Center. Even a couple hours now and then will be a help.

Our publications continue to be on a par with those of our 'age' in the field, a thank you to Harriett Foley who will continue doing HEIRLINES for us. A new Cemetery book will be out soon, containing a number of very old cemeteries about the county. Thanks to Chester Dunn for a superb job here.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS & NOTES, ETC.

The office volunteers are happy for the addition of an Adler typewriter, an Adler, added to the available equipment. The purchase was approved by our Board at its January 7 meeting.

Our education chairman, Fern Biehle, is off to Florida for three months. We trust she has a pleasant sojourn.

If you have an idea for a future program, let the president or the office have details of it.

Dues for 1987 are due and payable. Mailing of HEIRLINES will stop with the next issue if dues are unpaid.

Volumes 4 and 5 of our Cemetery books Springboro and Hamilton Township. are still available. Vol. 4 $10.00- Vol. 5 $7.25 plus tax & mailing fee of $1.00..

Can you do a "Warren County Spotlight"; even submit it in writing if you are too far away to attend.

If an ancestor was alive after 1935, they should have had a Social Security card. For his/her parents names and place of birth send certified copy of death (if you are a direct descendent) to SOCIAL SECURITY ADM., 6401 Security Blvd., Baltimore, MD. 21235.

The Ohio Pioneer Project has been cleared by Probate Judge John B. Tracy with Ellen Van Houten chairing for us.

Our library additions recently include four books, two volumes of Montgomery County Marriages; a volume on "Descendents of Colonial Governors" and a volume on New England Marriages. Come in and check our library. Happy 1987.

GUIDELINES FOR CEMETERY RESEARCH

1. Wear old clothes and heavy shoes - have a pair of artics in auto to slip on when the grass is wet. Wet feet leaves you uncomfortable all day and induces blisters. A hat or cap is necessary to ward off sunburn and also shade the eyes while reading the monuments.

2. Spray ankles with "Off" or some other insect repellent - also your waist & other openings on your clothing to ward off chiggers. Spray your head covering to help in keeping mosquitos & flies away so you can concentrate on the job at hand.

3. Use a clipboard(or similar hard backed object) to hold a yellow tablet(white glares) and either carry an eversharp pencil or have a supply of sharpened pencils available. Pens cannot be erased to correct errors & the ink runs when caught in a sudden shower.

4. Set pattern of movement across cemetery section before writing that first name. Walk around each monument to check sides & back for additional names - never take for granted that due to the contour of a stone that more names will not be found. You can expect to stray from a set pattern when you run into family plots that cover extra lots. Just make sure you get back on the original route after one of these detours.

5. When in doubt about a name or date, ask one of your partners to read the stone & if there is a variance, talk it over and let each other know why you call it as you do. Looking at stones from different angles helps quite a bit in determining the correct names & dates.

6. Use cleaner(combination of ammonia, dish water detergent & water in a windex type bottle) & a plastic bristle brush to clean hard to read stones. Determine that surface of stone will not flake off before using brush too vigorously. Some old stones are rather fragile and our object is to preserve in writing for posterity what is written there - not be a party to obliterating any names or dates.

7. Use a cemetery map or sketch to mark your progress and to make sure no sections are omitted from your copying. Date each section when completed and then if there is another burial before the cemetery is put into print, it will assure you that you did not skip that party. Additional burials can be extracted from the Western Star Obits which we carry as an ongoing project.

8. To this date(Sep 3, 1986), most all cemetery data has been re-copied & legibly printed in ink before submitting to the typist. This has involved quite a lot of late "candle light" on the part of this writer and future volumes will be taken from the penciled copies.

9. Typing the copied information as gathered is one of the most important and time consuming tasks. This is where the research terminates into legible material that can be offered to the public and used by researchers. After being proofread this volume is ready to be indexed and then printed. Proofing and indexing are not to be taken lightly as both are important.

10. The indexing can be handled most effeciently by one person, One party will not duplicate as many cards as two or more working on the same volume would.

To sum up all of the above informational instructions into one short paragraph, just remember this: Names, Dates & Relationships are most important and accuracy should never give way to speed in copying a cemetery.

Please address all correspondence to the Warren Co. Genealogical Society Resource Center, 300 E. Silver Street, Lebanon, OH 45036.

Submission of material on Warren County and the surrounding area is welcome. Please send to Harriet Foley, editor, at above address, with permission for its use.

The annual Anniversary Dinner-Meeting is set for April 22, set back a week due to Holy Week. It will be at 6:30 p.m. at our meeting room at Otterbein. The meal will be followed by the program, featuring Mrs. Jean Warden of Franklin, a professional genealogist specializing in New York State research.

Dinner reservations may be made at the Resource Center either by mail or in person. We should know by April 18, if you plan to join us for this festive occasion. The cost will be $6 per person.

CLASS IN INTERMEDIATE GENEALOGY SET

Plans for an intermediate genealogy class were made at the March 8 board meeting. It will be held in the Farm Extension conference room (place of last Spring's classes) with dates of April 4, 11, and 25, time 9:30-11:30 Saturday mornings. We are omitting Easter Saturday.

Jordon Dodd of the Mormon Resource Library in Norwood will be the instructor. He is exceptionally well suited, he is both a professional teacher and a genealogist. There will be a $5 charge for materials and handouts.

This is not a beginner's course. Any who attended last year's classes could continue to increase their know how with this class. Register by April 3, at the Resource Center by mail or in person.

History of Washington School

by Quincy Stubbs, age 86, of Cincinnati from September 14, 1933 Western Star

The first knowlege I had of the Washington school was in the year 1851 when I was nearly three and one-half years old. My father took me up to where Elijah Trovillo was laying the foundation stone for the old school house which stood a little north of this one.

I learned later that my father, Zimri Stubbs, gave one-half acre of land to revert back to the owner of the land when not used for school purposes. When the present school house was built another half acre was donated likewise.

The old school house had a hall nearly 6 feet wide across the front with a door at each end into the school room. The seats and desks were black walnut and white oak. The big box stove was up in front. Wood was burned all the time I attended, up to November, 1866. There was no well dug for a number of years.. Two boys with a wood bucket on a stick would carry the drinking water from Mathias Brant's farm a half mile away, when they did not choose to get it out of a nearby creek.

... Sometimes dogs or even hogs would raid the dinner buckets and baskets on the low shelves in the hall... We took good quills to school and the master made our pens to write with. He had to be a mechanic as well as an instructor. Chalk came in large lumps and had to be borken. There were wild turkeys in the woods.

The road was east or back of the school house for a few years ... There was no gravel road past the school house until 1868 or later. Ox teams were a familiar sight. After a rain I would take the children from Stubbtown to school with a young ox hitched to a wagon. ...

Masters and teachers were hired for a term of three month. I have a faint recollection that women teachers got forty dollars for the three months' term.

One boy I often think about that lived on the old Paris farm, but later was known as the James Cook farm, moved with the folks he lived with away out west. They day they were loading their wagons.. the boy came to bid a last fond goodbye to his playmates. A short distance south near the road, he cut his full name and date on a beech tree which was visible for 25 or 30 years or more, until David Worley cut it down. His name, John W. Vananders, May 4th 1854. In the 14 years I went to school I gazed on that name.

There were between 60 and 70 scholars enrolled prior to the Civil War. Statistics show there were more people in Warren County in 1850 than there were in the 40 or more years following. Out of the many who went to school, there are only 10 living (in 1933), Francis Clark Adams being the oldest and past 91.

George Trovillo and Alfred Payne gave their all in the Civil War, also David Brant. F.W. Bryant is resting in an unknown Foreign Island. Three others are buried at Helena, Montana; three in Philadelphia; three or more at Independence, Missouri. Others are in Illinois, Indiana, and at Lebanon, Morrow, Waynesville, Clarksville, Mason, and West Chester....

Masters and teachers I went to school to from September 4 1852 to November 1866, at Washington School in Warren County, Ohio. About one half of the instructors I went to were called masters.

1. James Young, an oldish man, blind in one eye. He was my first master. ... He drew me a bird on a bush and wrote on it "Quincy Stubbs, January 26, 1853." I have it yet.

2. Jonas Stubbs, my second master. He was my first cousin.

3. Joseph Robertson. He taught longer than any other.

4. Abiah Stubbs, my sister.

5. Jane Stubbs, my sister, whipped me for going out to throw at a bird, and I did not hit it either.

6. Ellen Stubbs, last survivor, about 90 years.

7. Lee S. Dunham, was county treasurer.

8. Joseph A. Dunham, gave me the hardest whipping I ever had.

9. Kane Graville, was too lenient.

10. Mary F. Wright, large woman, with eyes like an owl.

11. John F. Kibbey.

12. Rose Clarige, a holy terror, whipped six the first day.

13. Thomas Platt, a swell dresser.

14. Julia Saunders, called the bloomer girl. She wore bloomers.

15. Mary E. Fall, small in stature, but very neat.

16. Washington Whitacre, with whiskers galore.

17. _____ Fisher, had one short leg.

18. Rebecca R. Bovey, she got closer to the scholars than any other.

19. Alfred N. Rich, Loveland, Ohio.

20. John C. Trovillo, a former scholar

21. John Milton Dunham, next last survivor, about 88 years.

22. Joseph Young, only had one arm. He should have been in the Pen.

23. Lizzie Vestal, enjoyed crying over fiction love stories.

24. Sarah Compton, my last teacher, she wore boots.

I was told I went to a Miss Johnson, but I cannot recall her.

MEMORIAL GIFTS

One way to express your sympathy and sorrow at the death of a family member, or of a friend, is to make a memorial gift to the Warren County Genealogy Society. Or you could make a donation in honor of the ancestors of _____. The money will be used by the society to help build the collections in the Resource Center.

A bookplate will be put in the front of the book stating that it was given to WCGS in memory of _____, by _____. In recent weeks both the mother of Betty Greer, and the father of Chester Dunn have passed away. We have received memorial gifts in honor of both of them.

The Franklin Area Historical Society has had this custom for several years. In the last three years they have received $1,342, $1,514, and $2,149 from this purpose.

*The continuation from this point has not been proven: Joseph's son William Finch
b. 30 Jan 1750/51 no record since then. William Finch, who was illiterate, says he was born 1751 at Greenwich - no such birth recorded. In fact only Wm Finch recorded between 1750 & 1760 is the first one. No record of Wm #2 until he enters the service, gets married, and has family. Ralph D. Finch, author of "FINCH-ASHLEY 1630-1977" published in 1978, states evids are overwhelming that they are the same person.
